Pioneer Day held at O'Hara Mill August 15

Pioneer Day at O'Hara Mill, north of Madoc, had more than 200 cars in the parking lot half an hour after festivities began, Saturday.

"There is no way of telling how many people will actually come today," said one official as she stood and watched people stream around the guestbooks unaware of their presence.

Pioneer Day, an annual event, is a window to the past.

With a sawmill whining, a shingle-making machine squealing, a blacksmith working bellows and a forge, with rug-hooking, quilting, weaving, spinning, cooking, hiking, house-tours, ladies competing at driving nails, bagpipers filling the air with music, children singing and firemen barbequing all sorts of good things, O'Hara Mill came alive again last weekend just as it might have been a century ago.

Visitors toured the old schoolhouse and rode on a farm wagon drawn by big Belgian horses. Visitors were treated to live entertainment and a pioneer lighting display.

The Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA) set up in 1947, celebrated its 35th birthday.

O'Hara Mill is on MRCA property and is maintained as a recreation area with the added benefit of pioneer decor. Students are employed during summer months to operate and maintain the buildings and grounds.

One month after it had opened this year, 800 visitors had signed the register-people from Europe, U.S.A. and Eastern and Western Canada.

Thirty children joined Heritage fun day activities on August 6

By HERITAGE HOUSE STAFF

A fun day was held at the Madoc Public School playground by the Heritage House staff in the afternoon of August 6.

More than 30 children from Madoc participated in the events, designed to reflect the spirit of the past.

Heritage House is a student summer program dealing in Madoc history.

To encourage a sense of teamwork among the children during Fun Day, Heritage House staff divided them into two teams, Targars and Flying Phillies.

A variation on the popular obstacle course was the first event.

The Targars summer-saulted, sang, swallowed crackers and hula-hooped their way to victory.

Phillies came flying back with a clean sweep in the next big event, tug-o-war.

A pie-eating contest was one of the more exciting events of the fun day. Twenty girls and boys chewed, licked and swallowed their way, through chocolate, banana and coconut-cream pies.

Percy Morreaw won the event, clocking the fastest munching time. Lennie Hyde and Dave Cormier held 2nd and 3rd place respectively.

Heritage House staff enjoyed holding the event and extends thanks to everyone who participated and contributed to making fun day a success.

Bannockburn News:

Columnist returns, six weddings highlight summer

By JO-ANNE LAKE

I'm sure by now most of you folk out there figured that I have either moved or died.

Well to the dismay of some, I am still here and listening for interesting news to bring to you.

This summer has been unbelievable for news.

There have been weddings, six that I know of, re-unions, family picnics, funerals, I'm sorry to report, and sickness and marital disputes.

Last weekend I attended a very lovely wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus

Andrews finally escorted their only child down the aisle of no return.

It was a glorious day. Everyone looked absolutely beautiful, the perfect setting for a perfect event.

I'm sure if I had a daughter I would like her to be such a wedding.

The bride and groom are now Mr. and Mrs. Warren Gear.

Many years of happiness and love to the couple from your neighbors in Bannockburn.

Our very efficient mail lady and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hannah, Travis and Darzen, where all off to Canada's Wonderland this past weekend.

I plan on getting up there yet this summer.

I must also welcome home, after 11 years, my sister-in-law and her family from Newfoundland.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Andrews will be residing in Madoc.

It's nice to have your family a little closer than the East Coast.

We send out our very best get well wishes to Mr. Alex Hamilton and Mr. Doug Shaw who are recovering satisfactorily from surgery in Belleville.

We hope to see you both up and around very soon.

Well folks how are your gardens growing this summer? With blue bells and cockle shells? Maybe nothing as exotic but I know from experience that the vegetables are in full abundance this year. This winter if we don't have anything else to eat we will not go hungry for the lack of beans. I will have to discover new recipes for cooking them or by next summer we will not want to look at another bean-green or otherwise.

Ninetieth Birthday

Fred Fitzgerald of Remington celebrated his 90th birthday at the senior citizens home in Madoc August 10, surrounded by friends and well-wishers.

Fred and his daughter, Lois Roberts, of Eldorado, celebrated their birthdays at the same time.

Irene Empey is Fred's Red Cross Homemaker.

Mr. Fitzgerald went to McCoy School and lived in the Remington area all his life, farming and doing carpentry work.

He has two grandchildren, Wayne Roberts, of Eldorado, and Judith Lunney of Toronto. Judith is the mother of his two grandchildren, Dana and Kim.

Two ministers for 125th

Reverend Grant Richardson, Wooler Stockdale, conducted commemorative services at Hazzards Corners

Church on the 125th anniversary. Reverend Hilary Scrutton, Queensborough-Eldorado, assisted.

Hazzards Corners Church celebrates 125th anniversary

Hazzards Corners Church celebrated its 125th anniversary with an afternoon service and commemorative plaque dedication August 8.

The hand-hewn pews of the little church between Madoc and Queensboro were filled with ex-parishoners, descendants of the original Hazzard family, historical society representatives, well-wishers and representatives of the provincial parliament, as guest minister Rev. Grant Richardson, Wooler Stockdale, conducted the commemorative service.

"We keep forgetting," said Rev. Hilary Scrutton, Queensboro-Eldorado, in a special presentation, "all who lived before us, who worked in this community, who prayed and sang hymns in this church before we were born and what our fathers have done for us." Reading from words written for the Covenanters' Church, Grand Pre, N.B., she said, "...we drink from wells we did not find, eat food from fields we did not develop and we commit the sin of assuming everything begins with us."

The history of the Church was reviewed by Alma Moorcroft, one of the authors of Heritage of Faith.

The work of parishoners who strove to preserve the church since its closing in 1967 was acknowledged by Rev. Richardson.

The commemorative service was completed when Jim Pollock, MPP, dedicated a plaque arranged jointly through parishoners and the Ontario Ministry of Citizenship and Culture.

Also present at the ceremonies were Gerald Boyce, President of the Hastings County Historical Society and author of several books, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Hazzard of Hamilton.

Another available avenue:

Adults and seniors may upgrade education

A selection of credit courses for people with a minimum of grade-eight education is being offered this fall, at no charge, to those who wish to improve skills, upgrade academic standing, get a job, or who just want to broaden their interests, an adult education representative announced last week.

From September to January the Central Hastings Secondary School (CHSS), Madoc, will accommodate adults and senior citizens on morning or afternoon courses in business education, physical education or art.

The courses can provide credits toward college or university entrance.

"The time is right," said Elmer Buchanan, CHSS teacher, "to pick up skills at no expense while unemployment is high and economic times are difficult."

Adults may attend any of the regular courses offered at CHSS, or take the special courses offered, Buchanan said. They may use school buses or drive their own vehicles and use the school parking lot. "The facilities are there," Buchanan said.

Lockers are available and a common room will be set aside as a meeting room for adults. Day care will also be available as an activity of existing girls' trades courses, such as child care.

Business education classes will be held in the mornings. They will include basic typing, if desired, and such accounting subjects as petty cash, ledgers, payroll and invoices. The course is designed to develop an understanding of record-keeping procedures.

Physical education will take place Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings and will include physical warmups and exercises to music, or may include dancing, tennis, badminton, racquetball, golf, curling, cross-country skiing, skating, broomball, basketball, jogging or fitness activities.

Brenda Hudson will conduct art education classes three afternoons each week. The art course will examine basic visual and technical skills through sketching, painting and print making with pencil, charcoal, acrylics, oils and water colours. Ceramics and crafts may be included. Adults with all levels of ability can be accommodated, Buchanan said.

Adults may take one, two, three or four courses the first semester.

A second semester will begin in January, 1983.

Stirling Fair

Best ever

The Seymour East team walked away with the heavy weight tug-of-war prize at the Stirling Fair on Sunday when they defeated the Cookie's Mobster team. Both teams looked formidable early in the competition as the Seymour team won one pull in three seconds and the Mobsters won another pull in six seconds. The light division was won by Cooney Farms and Gibson Construction won the ladies event.

Jackie Barrett receives her crown from Susan Doornbas, last year's Hastings County Dairy Princess, as she was chosen the winner out of three contestants this year. The other entries were Nancy Frost and Lori Brennan.

The bikers in Super Moto 82 at the Stirling Fair did everything in their power to qualify for the final events on Saturday night. Here, one rider flies through the air to try and gain on the leader while another rider prepares to take the jump.

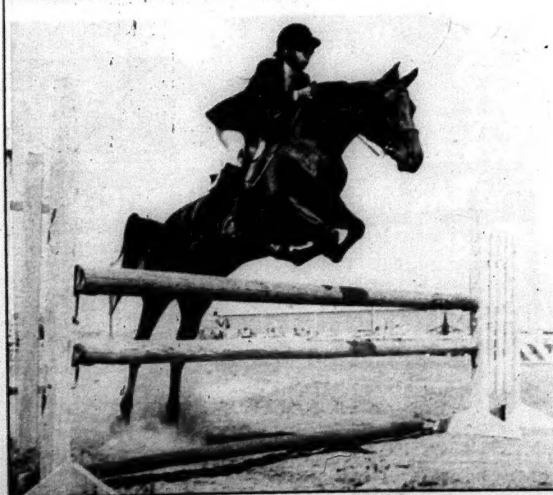

Because the track was so fast this year, there were some injuries that caused stoppages in the action and one rider was eventually taken to hospital. In this event, the entries nearly doubled last year's entries.

Show events with horses have become popular at the Stirling Fair and with good reason. The equestrian and western shows had some very fine horses entered and the organizers were pleased with the turnout.

Paula Harris won the Top Quality Calf award in the Beginners Calf Club Show while Mark Shannon was judged Top Showman. Derek Chapman was judged Top Overall Member and also had the top record book.

Local boy impresses at Canadian Championships

Napanee Legionnaires Midgets won the Canadian Midget Fastball Championships held in Napanee on August 4-8th, and Springbrook native Bryce Rowe, who was a member of that team, was chosen All Star second baseman for the tournament.

The Napanee team took home the gold medal by defeating Alberta 1-0, the North West Territories 5-4, Nova Scotia 5-2 and Saskatchewan 4-5 in the preliminary round. Nova Scotia was the defending champion team but they had to settle for third this year.

In the elimination round, Napanee defeated Nova Scotia 6-5, but then they lost 4-1 to Hagersville, the other

Ontario team. That defeat meant that Napanee had to win against Hagersville in the final twice without a defeat.

In the first game of the finals, Napanee squeaked by Hagersville, 2-0 before they trounced Hagersville 7-1 to take the championship.

This was the first year that Bryce has played for the all star midget team in Napanee and it will also be his last year as he is 18 years old. He plays for the Springbrook Rams junior team as a first baseman, shortstop and pitcher, and coach Jack Reid says Bryce could have won an all star position at first as well.

In other respects, it has not been a banner year for Bryce and his team in Springbrook. They placed seventh in league play and are now involved in B division playoffs. Bryce also broke his hand, which took him out of the lineup for a month and a half. He only played two games with the Rams before he went to the Canadian championships.

Bryce has played all but two years of minor ball in Springbrook. In that time, the Springbrook teams Bryce has played on have gone to the All Ontario finals five times, winning three times, and losing out the last two years.

He has been asked for the last two years to play with the Napanee team and, since this was his last midget year, he figured he might as well give it a try. He says he will likely tryout for the Napanee Juniors next year but he thinks the team will be hard to make because "most of those players will be 20 or 21 years old."

If he doesn't make the Napanee team, he expects to play for the Springbrook Rams junior team, "... which will be better next year because most of them are still midget age this year," he said. If he was asked to play baseball out of Belleville, he would also consider that. The Rams now lead their series with Halloway 3-1 after a 4-1 win in Springbrook on Wednesday night.

Bryce Rowe

Sparks sparkle in tournament play

During the past two weeks the Springbrook Sparks Bantam girls' baseball team have had a couple of major accomplishments. Firstly, they clinched the fourth and final playoff spot in the Quinte St. Lawrence league and now advance into a semi-final playoff with the Belleville Dairy Queen. The first game of the best-of-three playdown will be played Tuesday night at the Legion park in Belleville.

This past weekend in Belleville the girls competed in the Jennifer Devolin Memorial baseball tournament. The girls advanced into the 'A' championship game before dropping a heartbreaking 10-7 decision to Wooler.

In the first game of the tournament, Springbrook crushed a team from Thurlow Township to the tune of 16-4. Highlights of this game included a stand-out pitching performance by Debbie Carson, who struck out eleven in a game shortened to five innings because of the score.

Offensively, the whole team was hitting but Elaine Ervine, who went three for three with a two-run homer and a three-run triple, along with Leanne Johnston who also went three for three with a couple of runs batted in, were the brightest stars.

In the second game the team went down 12-5 to Wooler, this despite a steady pitching performance by Debbie Carson and Leanne Johnston. The main highlight of the game was poor quality officiating behind the plate, which kept the game in a constant uproar. Springbrook runs were scored by Debbie Carson with 2, Tammy Teestrata, Elaine Ervine and Tracey Danford with one each.

In a must-win third game, the girls went out and smothered Rossmore 22-12. The pitching win went to Debbie Carson with ten strike-outs to her credit. But the big story was the offence, who cranked out 7 home runs, including a grand slam to Shotgun, give them both barrels. Teestrata Tammy also hit a solo homer earlier in the game. Other homers went to Leanne Johnston with two and single blasts to Chris Reid, Lisa Williams and Chris Reid again.

In the final game, despite a valiant effort by everyone, the girls could not overcome the early lead built up by Wooler and had to settle for the runner-up spot.

The defensive star of the day was Debbie Carson who pitched superbly striking out 37 batters in 4 games.

The offensive star was Elaine Ervine, who went 14 for 14 at the plate.

The spectator stars went to our sponsors Doug and Gary Couch. Gary spent much of the day in the outhouse seeking relief from his tensions. We had to strap brother Doug to the bleachers to control his jumping up and down. All in all, it was a great day and speaking on behalf of Don Vilneff and myself, I think the girls can be very proud of their play.

News from Parliament

By Hon. George Hees, M.P.

The recent Budget included a new plan for assisting purchasers of homes. The plan provides a $5,000 grant to assist in the purchase of a new home (condominium, row-housing, duplex, triplex, semi-detached, single, and in some cases, depending on regulations, a mobile home). In the case of first-time home-buyers, it can apply to an existing home, as well as a new one.

The grant must be used to reduce the mortgage.

Buyers must make a down-payment of at least 10 per cent, over and above the $5,000 grant. To be eligible, first-time buyers of existing homes must purchase before the end of 1983. The grant is not taxable, and it is intended that homeowners should be able to benefit from both the federal plan and the program offered by the provincial government.

To apply for this plan, you should contact the nearest CMHC Office and request application forms be mailed, as soon as the forms become available. Forms will be forwarded in the order that requests are received. Hastings County residents should contact jects and wrote a general knowledge quiz.

Triticale - new crop grown near Madoc

A crop of triticale, a wheat-rye cross-pollinated grain, is standing in a field on David and Carol Murphy's farm, north of Madoc, waiting to be harvested later this month.

Grown as an evaluation demonstration crop, the little-known grain was sown last fall and will be used as cattle feed.

"It is high in protein," David Murphy said.

"Barley," he explained, "has about 12 per cent protein. Triticale has about 15 per cent protein; it has the best attributes of wheat and the winter hardiness of rye." This crop comes through Mr. Jenkins, of King Grain, Burlington. Mr. Murphy said, but triticale was developed by the University of Guelph about fifteen years ago for the third world as a spring grain.

"They double-cropped it," he said, "One in Canada, the next in Mexico and then the next in Canada."

The past four years it has been developed as a winter crop.

This fall the first crop will be released for commercial evaluation, he said.

Kingston CMHC, and Northumberland County residents are directed to the Peterborough Office. Canada Home Renovation Plan [CHRP]

The budget also announced an increase of funds allocated to this program to assist homeowners with the cost of most renovations and improvements.

This plan provides for forgivable loans to homeowners to cover up to 30 per cent, of the cost, to a maximum of $5,000. It is intended to cover repairs and alterations to a residence, improvements that are permanently installed or built into the structure of the home and intended for residential use.

Application forms and further details of the plan are available through your nearest Canada Mortgage and Housing Office, either in Kingston or Peterborough.

I have suggested that you should contact the CMHC Office for details about these two housing plans. If, however for some reason you are unable to get the information you require, please write to me, c/o House of Commons, Ottawa, and I will do my best to assist you.

Lots of township ball action as season draws to a close

BY ISABELLA SHAW

I have to apologize for missing last week's report. I was busy but that in itself should not be an excuse.

There has been much action both at our own diamond and away from home.

Our Atom boys have won two of their last three games and with the schedule nearing completion, they are preparing themselves for the league playoffs, a one-day tournament, and for their finals in their ORSA playdowns.

Word received is that the Lakers will travel to Waterford August 21, for their first game and then play a return game here the following weekend.

Watch for notices of game times.

Their tournament will be in Twerd August 28.

Our Squirt boys finished their schedule and are waiting for the league tournament.

Theirs will be held in Springbrook.

They lost the ORSA series to Rosemeath two games to none. This was their first experience in the ORSA playdowns. It is a learning experience.

Since last report, our famous B.G.s have played four games. Although still winless, the enthusiasm of the girls has not dampened and their playing on the field has improved.

It takes experience to put together a winning team, don't get discouraged girls. The highlight of their exhibition series was the game that they played against the Goldiggers. At one point in this game the B.G.s led by a couple of runs. It was a game that both teams enjoyed. It was also one of the best games the B.G.s have played; they are capable of a winning effort.

Perhaps a few of the other ladies' teams would like to challenge the girls.

The Goldiggers have been putting together a lot of wins lately; they have won four of their last five.

Jared James, son of Lois Budd, a member of the team, accompanied his mother to the game in Madoc on Thursday last, when the team played the Phillies. He didn't lack babysitters. He was only nine days old and like Drew Trotter, who also attended at nine days, he had complete faith in the coaches and spent most of the night sleeping.

August 9, Whirlwinds defeated the Martians. The Martians have been playing improved ball and will be a team to reckon with in their ladies' tournament.

This will be played on the weekend of August 21 at Eldorado.

Wednesday the Cooper Connections defeated the Raiders.

The Beauties, our Peeewe

girls' team, finished their schedule on Wednesday, August 4, with a 13-15 tie against Springbrook.

This saw the team successfully end their first year of organization. They were "B" champions in a tournament in Belleville. They lost a very close series on their first ORSA attempt.

The team that defeated them were runners-up in all Ontario last year.

Wednesday of this past week, they defeated the Eldorado Peeewe boys. 1 hear the result was never in doubt as the Beauties led all the way. Hannah Electric will play them August 15. I hear that the team had scouts out watching the game on Wednesday.

Our local representatives in the Twerd-Hungerford league will be playing their first-playoff games on Thursday this week. Flinton will visit the Combines on Thursday, August 19, and Otter Creek will visit the Cheese Juniors. This will be a best-two-out-of-three series.

ies' winners advancing to "A" Championship.

Our own local men's tournament was held on the weekend. This is the second year for this and will see eight teams in action.

The softball season is almost over and with it my need to report the news but watch for exhibition games. Circle August 21st weekend for the ladies' tournament; there should be some real good ball games here.

Two Madoc teams won tournament August 7-9

By BEV BROWNING

Madoc Minutemen won the "A" series and the Madoc Merchants won the "B" series of the Madoc Minutemen Softball tournament August 7-9.

Nine teams from Madoc, Ivanhoe, Cloyne, Eldorado, Markham, Hallows and Odessa completed in the weekend tournament.

Teams were divided into two groups.

Markham, Eldorado Combines, Cloyne and the Minutemen competed in Group 1 while the Eldorado Cheddar Cheese Juniors, Ivanhoe Ken Cassidy's Electric, Odessa Carroll's Texaco and the Madoc Merchants competed in Group 2.

The two top teams from each group played for the "A" Championship while the second place clubs played for the "B" Championship.

In the "A Final" two undefeated teams squared off. The Minutemen went with Brian Armstrong on the mound while Odessa Carroll's Texaco relied on Bill MacDonald.

Odessa jumped into a 1-0 first inning lead on MacDonald's inside the park homerun.

The Minutemen on timely hitting by Dairy Kramp and Harold Bailey made it 2-1 after one inning.

Carroll's Texaco tied the score in the top of the third. Again the Minutemen fought back with a Dave Fleming triple and a Clav Whitean RBI.

Odessa scored four runs in the fifth on the strength of back to back homers by MacDonald and Dale O'Hara.

This gave the Odessa squad a 6-4 lead.

However, Brian Armstrong's sheer run homer in the bottom of the fifth gave the Minutemen the lead for the final time.

The Minutemen scored once in the sixth to win the "A" Championship 8-6.

Madoc Minutemen won in Group 1 with wins over Markham, Eldorado Combines and Cloyne.

Markham came second with wins over the Combines and Cloyne.

Odessa's 4 and 0 record in Group 2 gave them the right to meet the Minutemen in the A Final.

Odessa defeated the Merchants, Ivanhoe, Ken Cassidy's Electric and the Eldorado Juniors (5-3 in 9 innings).

The Madoc Merchants made it to the B Final the hard way. After dropping the first two games to the Eldorado Juniors and Odessa the Merchants fought back off Sunday to defeat Ken Cassidy's Electric 4-3 and Ivanhoe 8-6.

Three teams were tied for second place in Group 2.

With three teams tied the lowest number of runs scored against between the teams tied decided the playoff spot.

The Merchants and Hallows were tied in this category also.

This reverts back to the game between the two tied teams and since the Merchants defeated Ken Cassidy's Electric they were awarded second place.

In the "B Final" the Merchants defeated Markham 7-1.

Steve Johnston pitched his third win of the day for the Merchants.

Marmora IGA holds Chuckwagon Days

Sounds of a hoe-down drifted from the IGA parking lot in Marmora, Saturday, August 14, as a three-day Chuck Wagon Days promotion drew to a close.

Chuck Wagon Days was essentially the taste-testing of a new brand of beef, with no chemical additives, barbecued for passers-by.

From the highway, one could see a 1936 fire truck. Tucked in behind the truck was a senior citizen band. Behind the band was an artist. On one side of the artist was a wood-craftsman and on the other was the barbecue, issuing smoke and tender beef tidbits.

The truck belonged to the Marmora fire department who joined the chuckwagon promotion in support of muscular dystrophy.

The band was the Marmora Senior Citizens Band, the artist was Peter Hebner, Blairton, and the craftsman was Bob Sanderson, Sandercraft, from Crowe Lake.

The band played while a couple square-danced on the parking lot, and Percy Gray microphone firmly in hand wailed out some old favorite tunes.

Teddi Coe, 13, RR4 Marmora, dressed in kilts, entertained with bagpipes and among the onlookers was a man with a parrot sitting quietly on his shoulder.

The Marmora Curling Club sold hotdogs and drinks and $10 tickets for an October 9th draw on a trip to Hawaii, or $4,000 cash.

"The senior citizens have earned a special mention," one spectator said. "They've been here playing for three days in a row."

Teddi Coe, 13, RR4 Marmora, entertained at the IGA Chuck Wagon Days on August 14, while the Senior Citizens Band rested.

Paul Denyer, Toronto, watched the musical festivities of Chuck Wagon Days at the IGA August 14, while his girl friend's Amazon

Green Parrot, Sally, sat quietly on his shoulder. Paul said he was parrot-sitting while Kate Howitt shopped.

Great Lakes bubbling with 400 chemicals

The priceless Great Lakes system, one-fifth of the world's fresh water supply from which 20 million people drink, has been turned into a giant sink with 400 different chemicals, the Joint International Commission studying pollution in the lakes reported.

Since an agreement was signed between Canada and the United States in 1978, cleanup has been delayed by spending cutbacks and bureaucratic delay, the commission reported.

Most studies and action have taken place relative to particular chemicals, but no action or study has been undertaken to determine the combined effects of all the chemicals.

The point where no remedy will be effective is rapidly approaching, the commission warned.

Straight eight

Dixie Lee purring on all cylinders

By BILL DENISON

Madoc Dixie Lee Squirts continued their winning streak August 11 in Frankford, when they edged the powerful Frankford Squirts 6-4.

This made eight wins in succession for the local lads.

It was a nip and tuck, see-saw, battle until the seventh inning, when Stephen Bancroft blasted a 3-run homer, putting Madoc ahead 6-3.

Frankford managed one comeback run in the bottom of the seventh, making the final tally 6-4.

Robyn Plumbe led the batting with 3 safe hits for the night.

Percy Moreau had two hits including a two-bagger.

Stephen Bancroft added one more safety at the plate along with his big blast in the seventh.

The return battle between these two teams is Wednesday August 18 here at the Madoc field.

After three games the fifth place Minutemen find themselves leading the second place finishers. Springbrook Royals two games to one in the opening best three out of five series.

In Springbrook, August 4 Daryl Kramp pitched a superb one-hitter to defeat the Royals 1-0.

Kramp allowed only two base runners during the game, a fourth-inning walk and a seventh-inning single.

He also struck out seven Royals and allowed only two balls past the infield.

The Minutemen scored their run in the fifth inning. Glen Graham scored from the first when the Royal's catcher threw Dale Graham's bunted ball into center field.

Tuesday night, with Brian Armstrong on the mound, the Minutemen took the second game of the series 3-1.

Madoc scored three runs in the bottom of the third and gave up a debateable homerun in the top of the seventh.

Harold Bailey, Brian Armstrong and Daryl Kramp picked up RBI singles during the third inning uprising.

Thursday night, August

12, the Minutemen travelled back to Springbrook for game three.

With two out in the bottom of the third inning, the Royal's Ken Smith hit a three-run in the park homer, or a triple one base error, to give the Royals all the runs they needed.

The Royals' Ron Bateman singled to center in the bottom of the sixth to drive in Springbrook's final two runs. Bateman was thrown out at the plate trying to stretch a fielding error into a homerun.

Dave Fleming drove in Charlie Wannamaker for the Minutemen's only run in the top of the seventh.

Minutemen had their chances earlier in the game when they left the bases loaded in the top of the second inning. Final score was Royals 5, Minutemen 1.

The fourth game is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday at 8:30 p.m., as the Royals cannot play on Tuesday night.

If Wednesday is not available we will try for Thursday night.

Channel 4 cable and CJBQ will verify when it will be played.

Campbellford Fair August 7 sunny, hot

Saturday, August 7, proved to be a sunny, hot day for the 4-H County Show at Campbellford Fair, but dairy and beef judges, Lowell Lindsay, Guelph, and Lynn Leavitt, Picton, handled the over sixty 4-H entries in good time.

In the class of 14 Intermediate Holstein Heifers, first place went to a July Stardust heifer shown by Paul Haig, RR 3, Campbellford. A June daughter of Majesty, shown by Evan Ingram, RR 2, Campbellford, came second. Paul Haig came back to win the Senior Dairy Showmanship class over 22 other contestants and, at the close of the afternoon, was declared Grand Champion Dairy Showman. Terry Petherick, RR 2, Campbellford, placed second in the Senior Dairy Showmanship class and eventually went on to take home the rosette for Reserve Grand Champion Dairy Showman.

Among the 33 entries in the class for Junior Holstein Heifers, born between October 1, 1981, and December 31, 1981, first place went to Kevin Petherick, RR

5, Campbellford, for his October Pontiac Chieftain heifer. Judge Lowell Lindsay declared this heifer Grand Champion of the 4-H Show at the program's end. Second place in the Junior Dairy Heifer (Oct. - Dec.) class went to a November Romandale-Magic heifer shown by Darren Dunham, RR 4, Campbellford.

Paul Haig's Intermediate class Stardust heifer became the Show's Reserve Grand Champion Heifer.

There were six entries in the class for Junior Holstein heifers born after January 1, 1982. The first place calf was a January daughter of Rockman shown by Elaine Petherick, RR 5, Campbellford.

Second place went to a January Admiral Citation calf shown by Rob VanDrie, RR 7, Brighton.

Among the 22 contestants in the Junior Dairy Showmanship Class Heather McCracken, RR 1, Hastings, placed first, followed by Kevin Haig, RR 3, Campbellford.

Eight young showmen competed for first place in the Novice Dairy Showmanship class with Susan Jaynes, RR 1, Grafton, winning that honour. Rob VanDrie followed in second spot.

Among the few 4-Hers exhibiting in the beef classes, the first place Senior Heifer was a Hereford sired by Elzevir CK Mario and shown by Ben Simonsen, RR 4, Cobourg. The top Junior Heifer was a Limousin cross shown by Mark Lafferty, RR 4, Trenton. Cathy Jones, RR 1, Castleton, exhibited the first place market steer, a Simmental cross. Cathy Jones and Ben Simonsen each won their respective Senior and Junior Beef Showmanship classes and went on to be declared the afternoon's Grand Champion and Reserve Grand Champion 4-H Beef Showmen.

Ben Simonsen's Senior Heifer was eventually declared the Show's Grand Champion Beef Calf, by Judge Lynn Leavitt, while Cathy Jones' steer became the final Reserve Grand Champion.

The Northumberland 4-H Pork Club and the Northumberland 4-H Beef Club both received red ribbons for their Club Exhibit Boards. The members of the Warkworth 4-H Calf Club won the Club Tie-Up Competition with their neat display, followed closely by the Colbright 4-H Calf Club and the West Northumberland 4-H Dairy Club.

Wintario $20 million program grants

Applications are now being accepted for a new $20 million Wintario Capital Grants Program. Ontario Citizenship and Culture Minister Bruce McCaffrey announced recently.

The program was announced simultaneously by Mr. McCaffrey and Tourism and Recreation Minister Reuben C. Baetz whose clients also share in it.

The application period ends next September 30. Mr. McCaffrey said, "and we'll be in a position to start flowing this new $20 million in a April 1."

Judging from the tremendous response to last year's program, there are many exciting community projects seeking Wintario Capital support.

Expect that I will be seeing imaginative proposals for community theatres, art galleries, museums and libraries, for communities that reflect the remarkable variety in our cultural heritage and provide opportunities for all Ontarians to share in that variety, and for restorations of historic buildings.

I am very much looking forward to reviewing these applications as they come in.

The Wintario Capital Grants Program provides support for community projects undertaken by non-profit organizations and municipalities that involve the renovation or construction of facilities for cultural and recreational uses.

Applications for this support are made through the society's local community programs offices.

Mr. McCaffrey said the various governing the new program will be much the same that were in effect last year and will be the same for each ministry.

In Northern and Eastern Ontario the ministries will pay up to half the eligible costs of approved projects. In the rest of the province the government's share will be one third.

The minister said the Wintario Capital Grants Program that had been introduced last year after a 21-month pause for past capital spending and consideration of future capital priorities "has been extremely successful in responding to the cultural needs of the citizens of this province."

As last year, our approvals in 1982-83 will reflect the findings of the capital priorities review.

In that review, the people of Ontario told us that they wanted support to flow to the improvement and upgrading of facilities, the reduction of operating costs, accessibility for disabled men and women and new facilities that would fulfill a demonstrated need, and that are the result of carefully planned development.

We met those priorities last year. Mr. McCaffrey concluded, "and we will continue to meet them this year."

Queen's Park Report

By Hugh O'Neil

MPP Quinte

Appearing before the Standing Committee on Resources Development, Adrian Catrill of the Canadian Solar Industries Association protested against the tax on solar related products, claiming, "it hits the industry at a point in time when it is about to go into commercialization after four years of research and development." He stated that "in Ontario we are now in a position to produce energy in the industry equal to the costs of imported oil today."

The Canadian Wood Energy Institute, represented by John Creelman, opposed extension of the retail sales tax to wood stoves, as being contradictory to the government's program of promoting energy conservation.

Energy Probe recommended taxing electricity rather than meals and soap, since all energy products are taxed except Ontario hydro, and the $230 million revenue could easily be raised in this manner.

The Residential Aluminum Manufacturers Association, representing 40 manufacturers of over 1,600 products, opposed extension of the sales tax to energy saving products. The government has spent millions of dollars telling people to "preserve it, conserve it," and is now taxing people for taking this advice.

Extension of the Sales Tax to Labor was opposed by several groups, including Canadian Truck Dealers, Ontario Dry Cleaners and Launderers and the Insurance Bureau of Canada.

Extension of Sales Tax to Periodicals etc. was opposed by Periodical Distributors of Canada and the Association of Canadian Publishers.

Many groups opposed the extension of the tax base to include Meals under $6, Candy and Snack Foods from 20.

Representatives of restaurants and restaurant chains, of fast-food outlets, the Ontario Restaurant and Foodservices Association, the Ontario Caterers Association, the Canadian Automatic Merchandising Association, the Association of Canadian Franchisors, the Chinese Restaurant Association, the Confectioners Manufacturers Association of Canada, and others protested this move to include cheaper meals, candy, confectionery and snacks in the taxable items.

Other groups protesting against the sales tax extension included the Ontario Federation of Labour, the Social Planning and Research Council of Hamilton and District, and the Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

The Retail Council of Canada favored extension of the tax base rather than an increase in the tax rate.

Resorts Ontario supported removal of the exemption for meals under $6, and reduction from 10 per cent to seven per cent for meals over that price and recommended lowering tax rates on alcohol, accommodation and food, with an exemption for items under 75 cents.

The Ontario Hotel and Motel Association favored removal of the exemption for meals under $6, and recommended lowering tax rates for food, liquor and accommodation.

The Ontario Chamber of Commerce felt withdrawing exemptions was preferable to revising the rate, while the law firm of McMillan Binch was generally in favor of the expansion of the retail sales tax base.

The Canadian Organization of Small Business generally pleased with the Budget was concerned with the government's deficit and spending. Its major concern was the impact of the sales tax expansion on small business.

The C.D. Howe Institute generally regarded either the extension of the retail sales tax base or an increase in the rate as the best revenue options.

The Actual Reaction to the Sales Tax Move

After the tumult and the shouting had died, the real reaction to the sales tax expansion came from the "the man in the street."

Ontarians have tightened their spending habits to such an extent that there has been a $400 million increase in the government's budget deficit, now estimated at a record $2.6 billion. A Treasury spokesman has blamed lower than expected revenues from the retail sales tax for the increase.

Government spending is still projected at $22.7

Wed. Aug. 16, 1982 Page 13 billion, but its projected revenue has been revised downward to $20.3 billion, and apart from $170 million repaid to Ottawa due to a federal overpayment, the balance of the changed total is being attributed to lower revenues from sales tax.

Leader of the Opposition, David Peterson, called the growing deficit "alarming," and said that financial analysts are asking some serious questions about the provincial economy.

Midweek section to carry sports from all Cembal papers

We're about to make a major change in the Midweek section of our newspapers, but we need your help if it is to be a success.

Within two or three weeks, we hope to convert Midweek into what will largely be a sports section.

Basically, our reasoning behind the change is two-fold. First, we intend to give the area better overall sports coverage in which our readers will be able to follow the competition as well as their local team. Many of our towns compete against each other at various stages of their seasons, so we're hoping that we can provide comprehensive sports coverage of the area in our sports pages that will keep everyone up-to-date on what is happening locally and regionally.

Our second reason for making the change should also benefit our readers. By taking the sports out of what we call the individual papers, we hope to create more room for local news within the individual communities.

That's going to put a lot more pressure on all of our staff to get the local news and events into the local papers, and that's where you, our readers, come in. This change can only be successful if everyone in the communities helps us with the news and sports coverage.

Ross Lees is being appointed Sports Editor for the Cembal Publications chain and it will be his job to co-ordinate the sports coverage in all the communities. He will be contacting people in each community in the next couple of weeks to organize meetings to arrange the coverage for all sports within that community. He will try to arrange the meetings so that as many sports are represented as possible at each meeting, but there will be instances where he will likely have to talk individually or in much smaller numbers to some of the executive of the various sports. Co-operation at this level is essential in setting up the changes.

We know right now that Ross won't be able to cover every sporting event in every town. However, he will co-ordinate that coverage as much as is possible and, when he can't get there, he will attempt to see that someone does turn up or that at least the write-up of the event will appear in the paper. That could mean that we will need a written or verbal report from someone following the event. That takes organization and co-operation from everyone.

The people involved in the various sporting events will have to ensure that Ross knows of the events in advance so that he can arrange for coverage. If there are mistakes while we go through our growing pains, you will have to bear with us and help us make sure it doesn't happen again.

Many people already send us written reports of various events and their continued support will be essential. Arranging the system so that it works properly is going to mean a lot of effort on everyone's part; it could mean some extra work on your part and it will certainly mean a lot of extra work on Ross's part. If we work together, it will work, and we hope that you will see some very positive results in the sports coverage you get from our newspapers.

Madoc Council contests fire protection costs

Madoc faces a cost increase of about 20 per cent for fire alarm service provided by the City of Belleville, it was revealed at a regular council meeting July 27.

Before agreeing to the increase in charges under a county mutual aid agreement, council will write to the federal and provincial ministers of finance, to Bill Vankoughnet, MP, to all municipalities covered by the mutual aid agreement and to the city of Belleville, asking if it should enter any agreement for an amount so far in excess of the six per cent limit on increases advocated by the federal government.

In other business, the council, meeting in the chambers on St. Lawrence Street, approved purchase of a new submersible pump for the village's primary well on Rollins Street.

Two pumps existed: one pump was kept operational while the other was overhauled. Both pumps were more than 20 years old. Recently, one became inoperable and parts cannot be obtained to repair it.

Costs of the new pump will be covered eventually under an existing water project grant system.

Mr. Jim Burke attended council for discussions on a preliminary rezoning application. Mr. Burke was advised that the village will wait for a report from the environment ministry before taking any action on what properties to purchase or what wells to develop. The clerk was instructed to supply Mr. Burke with a copy of the environment report when it is received. Council agreed to enter a licence agreement with P & C Sports to sharpen skates and to sell hockey sticks, tape and skate laces in the arena.

A licensing arrangement was decided upon instead of a leasing arrangement because leases might alter the non-tax status of the community facility.

Several complaints were received by council about auction sales being held on Durham Street North. The clerk of the village was asked to notify the persons holding the auctions that council requests the auctions be held on other than municipal property.

Merchants in the village were to be asked, via advertisements in the Madoc Review, not to endanger public safety or to inconvenience pedestrians by blocking streets or parking spaces with merchandise or signs.

Weight of vehicles on Bridge limited by Tudor Cashed Township

By Law 6-82, limiting to 5,000 kilograms the weight of vehicles passing over the Wolfe Lake Bridge, was passed at a meeting of Tudor and Cashed Township Council August 5, in Gilmour.

In other business, the treasurer was authorized to invest township money in short term deposits in Madoc at the Toronto Dominion Bank from time to time.

Bob Donaldson was given permission to cut posts on township dump property, lot 23 WHR, with the provision that he give 25 per cent of the posts to the township.

$50 was donated to the Salvation Army.

OHRP Loan 12-48-000021 was approved and two vouchers were approved for payment: road voucher 7 for $18,572.72; and general accounts for $1,676.79.

More Outdoor Living

Susan Leuty, home economist for Lennox, Addington, Frontenac instructs leaders on 4-H project More Outdoor Living.

Held in Trinity United Church, Madoc, she and Valerie Clark, home economist for Hastings, Prince Edward, spent two days preparing leaders to return to their 4-H clubs to direct the project during the fall and winter.

The project will terminate next year with an achievement day ceremony when 4-H clubs present skits

4-H leaders workshop sets stage for project

A two-day 4-H leaders' workshop was held in Trinity United Church in Madoc, Aug. 11-12, under the auspices of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food (OMAF).

"The leaders' workshop, a 4-H homemaking program, is intended to supply the experience and leadership ideas necessary to carry out a project called More Outdoor Living, when leaders return to their own clubs," said Valerie Clark, home economist for Hastings and Prince Edward Counties.

Valerie Clark and Susan Leuty, home economist for Lennox, Addington and Frontenac, were in Madoc for the first of two leaders workshops. The second will be held at the H.R. Frink Centre during the week Aug. 16-20.

"More Outdoor Living projects are designed to help 4-H members acquire basic outdoor skills," Clark said.

Members will discover ways to spend leisure time outside, she said, by planning outings, making plaster moulds of animal tracks, making prints of common leaves, identifying and preparing wild edibles, using basic methods of drying fruit and even making and flying kites.

The accumulated activities should help members know more about themselves and help them work together for mutual benefit.

They should also develop leadership qualities, Clark said.

4-H clubs are organized by local leaders," she explained, "so workshops are held before each project is undertaken."

More Outdoor Living will culminate with an Achievement Night next spring, she said, when leaders bring their clubs together and put on skits and demonstrations relative to the topic.

Achievement nights help build self-confidence, help to summarize lessons to be learned from the project, and develop members' skill in public speaking, she said.

Last public land-use meeting with MNR will be in Plevna Aug. 18

Lois Claxton, Tamworth, visited the land and resources open house in Madoc because she wanted to talk to someone about poaching going on on her property.

Earl Sager, Madoc and Queensboro, visited the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) function because he is a prospector and wanted to know what the MNR plans for minerals and mining.

Anyone interested in what the MNR intends to do with the environment, energy, forestry, fisheries, wildlife, provincial parks, recreation, land administration, co-ordination of resources and land-use, had an opportunity August 10 to speak to MNR officials in the Orange Hall between 4 and 8 p.m.

Displays, information and personnel were in town to begin the first of five such open houses scheduled for MNR's Tweed District.

The last will be held in Plevna, Aug. 18, at the township hall at 4 p.m.

Plans for the area have been compiled into a document, called Land Use Strategy by MNR officials.

The plans are set to be implemented in 1983.

At this time, the document

ment said, plans are in draft form and still subject to change.

Public discussion should permit refinement of the strategies and there is flexibility to amend the document for future planning options, it said.

Last year, MNR produced background information on the Tweed District land use policies and strategies.

Public comments were received and the draft strategy was prepared. It is now being presented to the public.

Rock talk

Two Geologists discuss the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) strategies on mineral resources and energy, at an MNR open house in Madoc, August 10.

The open house was an opportunity for members of the public to discuss long-range plans with MNR planning staff.

The last opportunity for individuals in the Madoc area to talk over the plans will be in Plevna, August 18.

Area News Roundup

Here is a six-town review of the news.

Stirling
The Stirling Business Association doubled its membership this year and is still looking for interested participants.

Growing Together, a program to help children 6-13 learn-by-doing, entered its third year. Information is obtained from schools regarding children's needs and the information is used in informal teaching.

Workmen completed repairs to the fairgrounds in time for the Stirling Fair.

Madoc
A Midnight Madness sale was held, with merchants keeping stores open until midnight, and the event became an old-fashioned social visiting spree, reminiscent of when farm families gathered in town on Friday and Saturday nights, to stock supplies for the coming week.

Madoc Fair Queen prepared to head for Toronto to compete in the competition for Canadian National Exhibition Fair Queen.

Marmora

The village population rose 5.5 per cent to 1,629, in a five-year period ending 1981, according to Statistics Canada.

A free school is operating in the village for adults who can not read or who would like to improve basic skills such as cooking, learning English or elementary tasks like reading or banking. It is the Centre Hastings Adult Day School.

Marmora

The village park was selected as the site for a cenotaph to be built, commemorating the deaths of Marmora and district men in two wars. A drawing of the cenotaph was released.

Rude explosions and earth tremors that awakened unsuspecting Marmora residents were caused by "controlled" blasts at the bottom of the old Marmora mine, under 300 feet of water. University of Western Ontario geophysicists are conducting seismic tests in deep holes in Eastern Ontario.

Edward Ramsay, 16, was killed when a car in which he was riding left the road and rolled, August 7.

Havelock

The village water tank requires sandblasting and painting both inside and out.

Pat Godden, a Norwood engineer, inspected the arena on orders from the reeve and tendered a $600 repair estimate. Deadline for the inspection had been set at August 9 by the Health and Safety Branch of the Ministry of Labor.

The Havelock Legion dedicated a new plot for burial of veterans at Maple Grove Cemetery.

Norwood

Norwood will host a Wintario draw on September 9, at the high school. The event will be preceded with a talent show. The affair is intended to be a community event. Representatives from several villages are involved.

Paving got underway on Colborne Street. Pavement on Highway 45 had been torn up almost to Rosemeath from Highway 7.

Caroline Heffernan, Norwood's Fair Queen, prepared to go to Toronto to represent the Agricultural Society at the CNE, and will enter the competition for the title of CNE Queen.

Hastings

Police Chief Charlie Hicks returned to duty after receiving a reprimand for the sale of an unregistered weapon.

Fiesta Days ended on a happier note than the week they began, with weather and attendance contributing to "some notable successes."

$675 was established as the cost to each water user of the filtration plant. The village will raise $280,000. Users may pay $675 in a lump sum, or $120 per year over 20 years. There are 385 residential water connections and 55 commercial.

would have no such effect. Even with the largest park option, all forestry targets are met," he said.

The conservationists stressed that the answer to the forest industry's wood supply problems lies not in cutting within parklands, but in following proper forest management techniques.

"The sustained yield harvesting of productive sites, not a constantly expanding land base, will ensure future wood supply," said Nancy Patterson, of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists.

"Industry could do a lot more to improve regeneration. Current cutting techniques waste large volumes of wood and often spoil the land for the regrowth of usable species," said Grace Patterson, of the Canadian Environmental Law Association.

The conservation groups also took issue with the statement made by Kenneth Greaves, president of the Ontario Forest Industries Association, that new parks in the North would "deal a crushing blow" to both the local and provincial economies.

Nancy Patterson pointed out that "not only do parks generate economic activity and create permanent jobs in the fastest growing industry today, tourism, but they also provide an important stabilizing factor in the North, where local economies too often depend on an unstable single industry."

"Mining and forestry are not secure sources of jobs. Mining fluctuates with the economy and the size and quality of the ore body. The forest industry has mined the forests, and it is now committed to mechanization, which costs hundreds of jobs," said Arlin Hackman.

Mr. Hackman pointed out that many Ontario communities, such as Bancroft, Atikokan and Hearst, suffer because of their dependence on a single industry.

Hubbles invited

All descendants of the Nehemiah Hubble family are invited to take part in the family reunion on Sunday, August 22, at 12:30 p.m. at the Havelock arena. Coffee and tea provided. Guest speaker at the Hubble Heritage Day will be Bruce McCausland, author of the history book on the Hubbles. All descendants are asked to come and learn more of their ancestry.

When Percy Gray of Marmora arrived home with this cob of corn, he found he'd been the beneficiary of a two-for-one bargain.

Land policy urgently needed

Scare stories on the loss of farmland in this country have been printed off and on for two decades.

The concern surfaces then disappears then reappears. Only last month Reader's Digest had a lengthy story which suggested that farmers, themselves were responsible for land which lost its tillth.

I have been depicting the loss of farmland for 20 years until I think many readers are getting sick of the same old complaints.

But support is growing for a comprehensive land use program in Canada. A document has been produced for Canada's agricultural ministers which addresses the problem squarely. A concerted and co-ordinated effort towards the conservation of good quality agricultural land does not yet exist in Canada, but it is necessary if the goal of the Agri Food Strategy for Canada is to be met.

The quote is from a policy paper prepared by the New Brunswick department of agriculture and rural development for the nation's agministers. Similar opinions have been expressed from other provinces, particularly Alberta, where another report also discusses the lack of a nation-wide effort to preserve land.

No one is pushing the panic button. Yet

The facts are available

Rabies increase

By Dr. Doug Galt, Head
Brighton Veterinary Laboratory

Rabies, a virus disease of the central nervous system, spread principally by bite wounds, has appeared on a regular basis in domestic and wild animals in southern Ontario since 1957. Currently we are experiencing a flare-up with an increased incidence of rabies in foxes, skunks, and cattle. In our area the fox and skunk population provides a reservoir for this virus infection. Many people relate an increased incidence of rabies in southern Ontario to an increase in the fox and skunk population.

All warm blooded animals can develop rabies, however, some are more resistant than others. For example, most meat-eating animals are very susceptible: birds, badgers, and opossums tend to be very resistant, while plant-eating animals, humans, monkeys, and dogs are considered as moderately susceptible.

We need to have a healthy respect for rabies and animals suffering from rabies. However, mass hysteria which often occurs when rabies is suggested is highly unnecessary.

The signs of rabies in an animal can mimic many other conditions. Rabid animals rarely become vicious and attack. In cattle, the first sign may be a mild digestive upset or some difficulty in using their back legs.

Wild animals captured for pets when very young may be incubating rabies and develop the signs several months later. The incubation period for rabies is extremely variable, ranging from two weeks to several months. Consequently, long quarantine periods are necessary for animals that have been exposed to rabies.

Rabies can be prevented. Excellent vaccines are available for all domestic livestock. Contact your local veterinarian for more information and availability of the vaccine. Vaccines are also available and should be considered for humans that frequently come in contact with potentially rabid animals.

Rabies can be very expensive as calculated in May, 1980, in California. One rabid dog cost over $100,000. The cost included human antirabies treatment, animal vaccination, investigative and control programs. It did not include patient travel time and expenses, patient lost work-time, and animal quarantine of exposed animals.

Rabies in domestic animals is a reportable disease. If you suspect an animal to have rabies, contact either your local Veterinary Practitioner or Animal Health Branch of Agriculture Canada.

Less than eight per cent of this huge land mass called Canada can be cultivated. Of that total, only about five per cent is above marginal capacity for agriculture. Only half of one per cent is Class 1 farmland.

The Alberta report puts the question in perspective: 60 per cent of that good land is within 160 kilometres of Canada's 23 largest cities. No one needs to be told that the cities and the towns of this country are perhaps the biggest culprits in the loss of farmland.

Those urban centres sprawl. Because they were originally small towns serving the agricultural community, they were built in the centre of good land. Now they are growing at an alarming rate and eating up the land they were originally built to serve.

More land, the reports say, could be used for agriculture but it is not the best land. It will cost far more to make it productive.

It is interesting to note, too, that only British Columbia, Quebec, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island have passed laws to preserve prime farmland. Other provinces, including Ontario, have guidelines only. Guidelines are about as useful as a hip pocket in undershorts. They have no legal authority.

Some provincial governments have set up a system of subsidies to encourage farmers to hold their land for agriculture.

It is not enough. The provinces have the political clout to control land use. Unfortunately, they have allowed that control to be passed on to the municipal governments. Municipal governments, as a general rule, are more interested in growth and industrial expansion than they are in preserving prime farm land. Cities and towns want to grow. Local and even provincial politicians encourage them to grow.

Their growth, almost to the acre - oops, hectare - is on the best farmland in the country.

Not long ago, a friend of mine sent me a cartoon that depicted farmers plowing land but the land was located on the flat-topped roofs of dozens of factory buildings.

If something is not done soon to preserve prime farmland, we may end up doing just that: plowing the roofs of buildings.

Issues change with the times

BY JOHN GORMAN

When the publishers of Canada's community newspapers gather in Saskatoon later this month, they will no doubt reflect on the rapidity with which their industry is affected by change.

The issues under discussion will be quite different from those of 20, 10 and five years ago. The new technology on display - computerized typesetting, computerized pagination and ad make-up along with dozens of new and progressive production innovations - were as distant as space 20 years ago.

The publishers will embrace the latest in the evolving new technology and set off on another round of innovation and improvement in their service to more than 10 million readers in Canada each week.

Printers and publishers have always been pioneers. From the time John Gutenberg accidentally dropped a stone printing plate on the floor and invented movable type, publishers have been challenging the new frontiers of their profession.

And what a noble profession it is. The practitioners of the printing, publishing and journalism trades have been pioneers in the spread of knowledge and in the fight for freedom of speech and written expression. Even in recent history it has not been unusual for publishers to meet reluctance in high places as causes supporting freedom and civil rights were aired in the press.

The history of publishing in Canada goes back farther than the history of the oil and gas industry, but there are many parallels in the development of these two important Canadian industries.

Where did the early Canadian newspapermen come from as they pioneer publishers established themselves in New France, in Nova Scotia and eventually and around Toronto and southern Ontario? These hardy souls, comfortably established in a noble and respected profession in Europe, chose to take their knowledge and primitive equipment to the new frontiers to establish a free press in the new world. To them we owe a great debt, and the best way to ensure payment is to ensure that those solid principles of freedom established long ago are in no way compromised.

It wasn't until the internal combustion engine became a significant part of North America's evolving technology that the oil and gas business began to develop as an important Canadian industry. Although oil was first discovered in Southern Ontario in 1858, the industry was concentrated mainly in the United States until after the Second World War, when world-class oil discoveries were made in Alberta. As the early Canadian publishers had carried their technology, expertise and equipment from the British Isles and France, so U.S. oil men brought their technology, expertise and equipment from the oilfields of Texas and Oklahoma to the plains of Saskatchewan and Alberta to develop the Canadian industry.

In a recent talk to the national conference of the Canadian Public Relations Society, Ian Smyth, executive director of the Canadian Petroleum Association, gave a concise explanation of the make-up of today's oil and gas industry.

"For all practical purposes," he said, "the petroleum industry is not one but two quite separate industries. The sector most familiar - the refining and marketing sector - is called the 'downstream' industry and its company names are household words. What the public rarely sees and hardly knows is the 'upstream' sector - the oil and gas exploration, production and pipelining companies which my association represents."

The public typically thinks of our industry in terms of six or seven names (or sisters), yet there are in fact over 600 companies in the exploration business alone, not to mention hundreds more in the drilling and service components of the upstream sector.

Mr. Smyth didn't say that today his industry is in the throes of a deep and threatening downturn.

He went on to say that the 600 companies are made up of highly skilled scientists and technical people capable of finding and developing Canada's oil and gas energy needs well into the future. It is also a fact that by the very nature of the oil and gas business, secrecy and confidentiality are a large part of the competitive aspect of the industry. If oilmen are reluctant to share their industry secrets with one another, they are not likely to share them with the general public through the media. For this reason misunderstandings have persisted through several generations.

As Mr. Smyth will no doubt explain during his talks with the publishers at Hubbles gather

The 33rd Annual Hubble Reunion picnic was held at Zuicks Island, Belleville on Sunday, July 25. Members were in attendance from Detroit, Mich., Pembroke, Frankford, Stirling, Marjora, Campbellford and Belleville.

Ken Fairman, President, conducted the business meeting. It was decided to have the picnic at the same place next year on the fourth Sunday in July. The officers were re-elected for another term. President, Ken Fairman, 1st vice president, Jim Hubbles, Secretary-treasurer, Jean MacMullen, prize convener, Zora Fisher, historians, Bruce McCausland and Mrs. Celeste (Hubble) Kaubanan.

Prizes were given out as follows: Oldest lady - Mrs. Clifford Hubble, oldest man - Ormel MacMullen, youngest child - Patti Hubble, travelled the furthest, William and Lorene Solomon Detroit, Michigan.

the 63rd Annual CCNA convention, the oil and gas industry is now eager to tell its story in Canada, because the silence of the past has cost dearly in terms of public and political support for the industry.

It all makes for interesting times ahead. While science provides the technology for communications, communications is the medium for the dissemination and use of science and technology.

Church advocates peaceful role

Canadians should be able to redirect their taxes from military expenditures to peace programs says a United Church of Canada committee as it calls for greater initiatives in the fight for world peace.

Canada is in a unique position to work toward de-escalation of the arms build-up and to act as world peacemaker, the church's committee on Church and International Affairs says in a report to be presented to the Church's General Council meeting in Montreal Aug. 9-15.

If Canada does take on the role of world peacemaker, the committee says, it would have to change some of its "corporate behaviour" as a nation which "makes us in fact a powder monkey in the world."

The committee says that reconciliation between peoples and nations can only come about if the world's nations recognize that it is no longer just our moral survival, but our physical survival, that depends on a halt to the arms race.

While the rich and the poor may be in different boats from a point of view of development, the threat of a nuclear catastrophe puts everyone in the same boat, the committee says.

At the same time, the committee cautions that the world's nations need to recognize that underlying social, political, and economic injustices must be eliminated before the cry for peace becomes little more than an empty plea.

The committee recommends that the United Church "wholeheartedly" endorse the "Canada as a Nuclear Weapons Free Zone" campaign of Project Ploughshares and that the Church increase its financial support of Project Ploughshares.

The Church should also appoint a church advocate for peace and disarmament promoting peace and disarmament through Canada, the committee adds.

The committee will also recommend to the Canadian government the need for a White Paper on defence and external affairs which would clearly expound "positive and realistic Canadian initiatives to strengthen our role as peacemaker."

It also urges a full review of current mechanisms for controlling the export of military goods and urges an intensive study of the relationship between nuclear power and nuclear weapons and between the arms race and Third-World underdevelopment and oppression.

The committee calls on the Church to press the Canadian government for a firm policy of not using food as a weapon to secure changes in foreign or domestic policies of governments whose people need famine relief.

Ontario ag rep wins national extension award

For the past 16 years, Huron county's Don Pullen has been playing on a winning team. Now he is in the limelight as the first recipient of a national award recognizing outstanding achievement in agricultural extension work.

The distinguished Extension award was presented for the first time at the Canadian Society of Extension annual meeting held at Vancouver in early July.

Colleagues nominating Mr. Pullen stressed his keen dedication to helping county farmers with production and farm management problems. They also pointed to his ability to mold a busy extension office into an effective team.

"As a team leader in the office, Don provides organization, energy and enthusiasm to allow the staff to function efficiently," said former Huron county agricultural engineer George Penfold. "In the community, he is equally as skilled and at ease in dealing with policy matters at the county council level, providing assistance to farm organizations, or advising individual farmers on recommended management practices."

Pullen, a 45-year-old southwestern Ontario native born in London, graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College with a B.S.A. degree in animal husbandry in 1963. During his college years, he worked as a summer assistant agricultural representative in Perth, Wellington and Dufferin counties before he was appointed assistant ag rep for Huron in 1963. He has served as that county's ag rep for the past 16 years.

Ontario Minister of Agriculture and Food Dennis Timbrell commenting on the award presentation said, "Don Pullen has shown he possesses the professional skills and leadership qualities required to mount a successful extension effort. I think it is particularly appropriate that this award should come to Don during the 75th anniversary year of extension service to Ontario farmers."

The Canadian Society of Extension, which presented the award, is a scientific organization and member body of the Agricultural Institute of Canada. It provides professional development for extension workers in government, universities and agribusiness.

Safer boating major CORTS issue

'Police divers recover bodies of family killed in boating mishap'. It's an all too common summer headline in newspapers along Ontario's lakes and rivers. And, as the Ontario Provincial Police will tell you, the summer death and accident toll can be equalled or surpassed by spring and fall hunting and fishing boat accidents - when frigid water adds the numbing killer of hypothermia.

New government policies announced for Ontario's major recreational waterways, the Rideau and the Trent-Severn, tackle key boating safety issues. The CORTS Policies, a joint federal and provincial management undertaking for the Rideau Canal, St. Lawrence - Bay of Quinte and Trent-Severn waterway corridor, include government initiatives dealing with the enforcement of boating regulations, education for marine craft users, and control of boating on narrow or congested areas.

In the extensive public discussions leading to the CORTS (Canada-Ontario-Rideau-Trent-Severn) policies, virtually all waterway residents, and users called for safer boating. It's a concern shared by the Ontario Provincial Police, who have the job of policing the waterways. Staff Sergeant Walter Kotva, of the OPP Transport Branch, points to some of the safety hazards: "The problems include untrained users, greater numbers of boaters, and increased horsepower on boats. On the water, equipment deficiencies can be fatal. Look at collisions caused by lack of running lights at night... or drownings from lack of life-preservers, or from lack of safety flares to call for help. On top of that, there are unsafe practices, like standing up in boats while starting them, or not having look-outs while waterskiing, or collisions from failure to give the right of way."

Current policing operations on the waterways are extensive, notes Staff Sergeant Bob Stevens: "We have six boats on the Rideau, and fifteen on the Trent-Severn, from Georgian Bay to the Bay of Quinte. Our mandate is simple: it's to protect life and property, and enforce the appropriate laws. We enforce the small vessel and boating regulations, and the criminal offences, like dangerous or impaired boating."

But when the police want to charge for a notoriously dangerous practice, like towing a water-ski with out a look-out in the boat, they have to prosecute for criminal negligence under the Criminal Code. Courts, unwilling to assign criminal records, frequently dismiss the charges.

The prosecuting mechanism is cumbersome as well. The offender and the charging officer must both appear in court. This presents a real problem for a tourist visitor. It also ties up police and court time.

The CORTS policies envisage a more simplified prosecution system, similar to the tickets handed out on the spot with road traffic offences. New boating regulations, now being drafted by the federal government, will permit streamlined prosecution procedures, with penalties compatible with the nature and scale of the offence.

Boating congestion on narrow or constricted waters is another public concern. There are over three hundred miles of narrow channels in the corridor. Boating speed restrictions are in place in many areas, and there is pressure either for more restrictions, or for segregation of the types of boating activities allowed in certain places.

The CORTS policies will guide corridor agencies in discouraging additional build-up of narrow channels. General shoreline development will be viewed with a cautious awareness of the water use problems that might arise, and the problems of wake damage and speeding in congested areas. In addition, both governments will continue development of techniques of measuring wake levels, so that specific wake force can be determined.

The need for increased boater education to supplement currently available printed material has also been raised by waterway users. OPP Staff Sergeant Kotva praises the current efforts of public groups like the Canadian Power Squadrons. He emphasises the need for safety skills on the water: "Our own officers get a lot of training before we put them out on the water. They study first aid, marine craft operation, marine laws and marine craft maintenance... four areas any boat operator in this province should have some knowledge of. Our community relations officers in our local detachments have school programs on marine safety, given before the summer starts. During the summer we give public talks where and when we can. The more marine training operators take, the safer our waterways will become."

Responding to such widespread public concern, the Province of Ontario, as part of the CORTS policies, will begin work on an overall education program for boaters in the province.

Summing up the CORTS policy initiatives for safer boating on the waterways, Peter White, Director of the CORTS Secretariat, stresses the need for co-operation and concerted effort: "Safer boating will only be achieved through successive years of effort, and with the help of a lot of agencies and public interest groups. Other aspects of boating use - where there is disagreement among users as to what body of water should have certain types of boating on it - can't be solved by some heavy handed government Solomon. In the CORTS co-operative agency approach, we can work to achieve a sensible consensus on user wishes, hear all viewpoints, and then make decisions. I think these CORTS boating policies will give us the tools to handle a waterway safety problem that has to be dealt with."

Group formed to combat drunk driving

A grassroots movement has started in Canada to get drunk drivers off the road and ensure laws against them are strictly enforced.

The Citizens Against Impaired Driving (CAID) is launching a media and public awareness campaign this summer to voice their outrage about the thousands of Canadians killed each year on roads by drunk drivers. The CAID also plans to lobby legislators to pressure judges to step up enforcement of penalties for impaired driving.

Karen Mitchell, founder and president of the Ontario branch of the CAID here, says the laws against drunk driving are generally adequate, but the enforcement is poor. Too often, a person convicted of the offence is given "a slap on the wrist".

This can be true even when someone has been killed. Mrs. Mitchell says. And family and friends who grieve over the loss of a loved one are also victims of this injustice.

"It (drunk driving) is just not treated as a serious offence," Mrs. Mitchell said. "It's kind of a joke."

Mrs. Mitchell has first hand experience with this injustice. Three years ago her nine year old daughter Jennifer, who was enjoying some summer bicycling, was killed when a drunk driver hit her from behind. The man was sentenced to two years less a day in prison.

"That's it. That's shocking," she says. "In a few months he'll be out, and back on the road again."

But Mrs. Mitchell is confident that pressure from the CAID will prevent this from happening in the future. Although the CAID's Ontario branch was only started in late May, there are already 70 members and others in the province have made inquiries, she says.

The CAID got its start in Manitoba last November and the idea is spreading throughout Canada. Mrs. Mitchell adds. Another branch has started in Edmonton, Alberta and there are plans for others in British Columbia and New Brunswick.

She is now preparing information kits for new members, drawing up an organizational constitution, and gathering facts on legislation and drunk-driving statistics. The Manitoba group has already contacted the province's attorney-general, and Mrs. Mitchell expects to do the same in Ontario in the near future.

She has also contacted the Toronto police to share information, and discuss how they may help each other. Police will be able to direct any victims of drunk drivers to the CAID, she says.

"We have their support and certainly their sympathy," Mrs. Mitchell adds. Her branch is also hoping to establish a victims' crisis centre that will help with such things as funeral arrangements, or monitoring court cases of the drivers involved.

Mrs. Mitchell stresses the CAID is not a prohibition or temperance group and right now there are no plans to lobby against such things as beer and liquor advertisements.

However, there are plans to lobby at the federal level when the group becomes larger, and to have citizens from every province involved in the project.

The CAID has also established contacts with the American-based Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD) group and is sharing information and literature with them, she says.

Membership in the CAID is $5 single, and $10 for a family. Information can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Mitchell at 72 Ringley Ave., Toronto, Ont. M8Y 1T5.

Soybeans gain in popularity

Soybeans as a food are increasing in popularity in Canada.

They provide a source of iron, niacin and thiamine and protein. Soybeans are a good source of protein, ranking just below animal protein foods like meat and cheese in total number and balance of essential amino acids.

One serving of cooked drained soybeans yields about 17 grams of protein. That's quite a contribution in terms of protein requirement. Males over 19 years of age need 56 grams daily & a female in the same category 41 grams.

Dried soybeans store well in the cupboard for up to one year. Store cooked soybeans in cooking water in covered container in refrigerator for up to three weeks. To freeze cooked soybeans drain and pack away in plastic containers.

Take all dried beans, soybeans must be soaked overnight. For every cup of beans add three cups of water and one tsp. salt. The soybeans must now be cooked to completely softening. Drain off the soaking water. Add three cups water, one tsp. and two cups vegetable oil. Simmer for three and one half hours and tender. Now you can use them in your favourite recipe.

Sweet and Sour Stir Fry
1 1/2 ml carrots, cut into bite size pieces.
40 ml soybean oil or other vegetable oil.
1/2 ml green pepper, but into bite size pieces.
1/2 ml onion, cut into bite size pieces.
1 clove garlic, finely chopped (optional).
500 ml cooked soybeans.
1/2 ml drained pineapple chunks.
1/2 ml stewed tomatoes or 10 ml ketchup.
1/2 ml cornstarch.
40 ml brown sugar.
1 ml ground ginger.
1 ml dark sauce.
30 ml vinegar.
1/2 ml pineapple juice drained from chunks.
Parboil the carrots until tender crisp. Drain. Heat the oil in a large frying pan. Stir fry the green pepper, onion, carrots and garlic. Add the soybeans, pineapple chunks and tomatoes. Stir fry a few minutes. Mix the cornstarch, brown sugar, ground ginger, soy sauce, vinegar and pineapple juice together in a small bowl and add to pan. Cook and stir until mixture boils and all ingredients are coated with sauce (about 2 minutes). Serve over hot, cooked rice. Serves 4-6.

Vandalism strikes new Canada Talc property

Canada Talc Company of Madoc purchased 250 acres of the old Marmoraton Mine property from Armbr. Marmor. July 15, David Cook, mine manager told Marmor and Lake Township council last Saturday.

The property, with buildings and a power sub-station, were purchased to provide storage for bagged produce from the Madoc talc mine, and to develop a new processing plant to handle raw material from the open pit mine being dug outside Madoc.

Another talc find is being examined north of Tweed, Cook said. Produce from the shaft at Madoc will be processed there, and raw material from future sites will be transported to a new facility.

"We looked into the idea of a new processing plant in Madoc," Cook said earlier, "but power was prohibitively expensive and there was no room to build because of the open pit development."

Cook was informing the Marmor Lake council that the newly-purchased property had been fenced to prevent rampant vandalism 500 windows were broken, he said. A month later, 20 more were smashed. Still more were broken at the end of July, and equipment was stolen.

Cook was concerned that the council might receive complaints about fencing property to which there was public access previously.

Cook said that the Marmor Lake site would eventually be in operation 24 hours a day, five days a week, but now the only protection available against vandalism was fencing.

Moira conservation summer crews completed many learning projects

Eighty forest and bush fires, 78 of them started by people, were fought this summer in the 26 townships covered by Tweed (Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR).

Speaking to more than forty employees of the Moira River Conservation Authority (MRCA) and the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority (CVCA), Fred Day, MNR fire control spokesman, said that 1,200 fires have broken out in Ontario, and burned about 8,000 acres.

"It's not a bad year, when you consider that in the north country, in past years, some single fires ravaged 500,000 acres, but it's bad enough when you realize 78 of 80 fires were caused by careless people."

At the meeting, designed to familiarize conservation employees with fire-fighting capabilities and equipment, MNR staff showed slides and firefighting equipment, then moved to the river where they activated equipment and demonstrated procedures for approaching fires.

Following the demonstration, conservation authorities emulated the actions to obtain practical experience.

"We are constantly trying to get the message across to the public that fire permits are required from April 1 to October 30, and that even work on private property, that might accumulate slash, must be covered by a work permit. The permits enable firefighting organizations to keep an eye on volatile spots," Day said.

The Tweed MNR office has four unit crews of five men each, ready to go anywhere in the province to fight fires. Each man is trained to take four untrained men to a fire scene and co-ordinate their efforts.

The fire meeting was just one of many facets of the training that the Moira River Conservation Authority has given its employees this summer.

Laura Newman, information and projects officer, explained that dozens of projects were carried out.

Master plans for the operations of four conservation areas were completed this summer, and a forest management plan for a fifth will be done by fall, she explained in a written news release.

Three planners, two foresters, three O'Hara Mill custodians, six Vanderwater crew members, and a two-woman crew at the MRCA office comprise the majority of the summer staff funded by two levels of government.

The staff has created brochures, compiled files of contacts and references for other planners, conducted ecological and water surveys, conducted tours and nature walks, developed shops and lawns, developed walkways and bridges, and assisted in dam repairs.

On the administrative side, they drafted flood control procedures, planned special events, aired eight radio programs, wrote quarterly newsletters, researched conservation authority history and updated maps.

In addition they kept books, accounts, payroll records and they submitted reports to provincial and federal funding departments.

Broken main cut Madoc water service for 12 hours Aug 12

Water service to parts of the village were cut off for up to 12 hours August 12 when the main water line on St. Lawrence Street developed a three-foot split east of the Canadian Tire garage.

"It was a muddy old hole to work in," said Percy Crawford, works foreman.

Mr. Crawford said the main line split and the service line to one residence also broke.

Both had to be repaired.

One man worked the loader and three men worked in the excavation until water service could be fully restored about 9 p.m.

"Some of those lines are almost thirty years old," Mr. Crawford said.

"They're under increased pressure since the village switched to the new tower in the 80-81 year. Sometimes the lines snap in two just as if they'd been cut with a saw," he said.

Madoc swim program ends year with splash party and awards

Almost 100 people gathered at Campins Camp Inn to watch the Madoc swimming program terminate its 1982 program with a splash party and awards program.

Seventy children formed teams and played water games prior to the awards ceremonies.

Kim Gaebel, swimming instructor, will turn instruction duties over to two young people next year, after eight years with the program.

Carolyn Hagerman, 17, and Arlene Brown, 16, have been two years in the program and will assume Kim's duties, if all goes as planned.

Both girls will return to Central Hastings Secondary School this fall to grade 12.

A panel of experts, waiting their turn, watch and give advice to Heather Freeman wading water during competition at the final splash party of the Madoc swimming program. Watching are Tommy Burnside, Laura

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Nicholson of Harold, visited Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clarke

Goldie immortalizes Pioneer Day in poetry

BY GOLDIE HOLMES

The Moira River Conservation Authority greets you on this day.

August 15th, 1982, and it's a pleasure I must say. To take part on this occasion, and this year especially.

As it is the organization's 55th anniversary.

The conservation takes in a lot of space of forests, water, ground.

And many parks for recreation and picnics are found.

Today is Pioneer Day on the estate of O'Hara's Mill. And is an annual event, which I hope forever will keep on throughout the future years, so generations will see.

How pioneers worked and lived, and were happy as could be.

Inside the various buildings, you will see things they used.

Way back in days of yore, which today look very crude.

Inside the house are things of interest but shows progress too was made.

By the furniture in the parlour, now beautifully displayed.

The O'Hara's mother country was Ireland, they were nice folk of good class.

And down through the generations, it would be hard to surpass.

The careers they had, as traders in militia life and political call.

In 1689 Charles was knighted by King William at Whitehall.

The titles of lord and baron are in the roots of the family tree.

And the early O'Haras did a lot of travelling on land and on the sea.

But eventually descendants came to Madoc and made friends with the Indians here.

And with patience and perseverance, they acquired much through the passing years.

It is 25 years since this property came under the

with some of her quilt work in a display building at O'Hara Mill the day the poem was read. Staff photo.

Moira River Conservation. They have done a lot of work to retain the preservation.

The blacksmith shop and saw mill and barns have all kept well.

The little log school house was brought from another area and so was the old school bell.

It is like the first pioneer schools, where children learned to write and read.

And so its being transplanted here, is fitting indeed.

We pay tribute to the pioneers and to the O'Hara clan.

For their fortitude and courage, the hardships to withstand.

To hew the logs and build their homes and clear the land to sow.

Gardens to have food to eat, it was real hard work you know.

The pioneers had no conveniences, until a long time after.

They came to make their homes here, but there were good times and laughter.

Over just little things they said or did, and with achievements, they were pleased.

Their homes were quite bare, but love was there and they thanked God on their knees.

The families worked together, doing what was needed.

Children respected their parents, and their demands were heeded.

Most homes had a Bible, which was read by very dim light.

And prayers were said after it was read then they retired for the night.

Sundays were really Sundays, then; a day above all days.

In which to rest or visit, and sing songs of praise.

But times have really changed since then, for better in many ways.

Yet folks aren't one bit happier, then they were in the by-gone days.

If we now strive to do our best in everything we do.

Although we are not pioneers, we will be counted too.

I feel I am part of this conservation, although no one's told me so.

For I make replicas of buildings in fabrics, which I sew.

And make quilts and small wall-hangings, of places that I see.

In Queensborough and areas in the Moira River Conservation Authority.

To preserve the looks of places, in order to convey.

To folks in future, though change may come.

That is what they looked like in my day.

Now on this very special occasion, we are pleased that you are here.

And hope this day will be one to remember.

And you will come back next year.

Hastings 4-H Plowman's Club prepare for achievement day

BY CAROL BRENNAN

The fourth meeting of the Hastings 4-H Plowmen's Club was held on the property of Mr. Joe Thompson on Saturday, August 7, 1982, at 1 p.m.

The meeting was opened by Mr. Wayne Martin, of the Stirling OMAF office by introducing our guest speaker, Mr. Byrnell Wylie, who is one of the judges this year at the Hastings County Plowing Match.

The purpose of this meeting was to prepare all of us for our Achievement Day on Saturday, September 11th, 1982, on the property of Mr. Doug Morton, Stirling (Lot 10, Concession 1, Rawdon Township, County Road 8 Ridge Road, east side of the Village of Stirling) at 1 p.m.

With Clare Dracup demonstrating on a two furrow plow and Margaret Anne Thompson on a three furrow plow, Leaders Richard Dracup and Terry Shannon pointed out the right and wrong ways of plowing while Mr. Wylie told us how the marks would have been given to the competitors.

This was followed with the minutes of the last meeting and refreshments.

Rawdon Creek getting facelift, new life

Rehabilitation of Rawdon Creek has begun.

The Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority (LTRCA) undertook an extensive land inventory study on both the Rawdon Creek and Shelter Creek watersheds during the summer of 1981. At that time, it was determined that many problem sites existed. A list of problem sites was drawn up and work agreements with landowners were completed. This year, beginning in the first week of June, a crew of three Experience '82 students and one supervisor began work on the problem sites of Rawdon Creek.

The objectives of the rehabilitation program are: to rehabilitate and manage land water resources; to improve water quality and quantity; to promote cooperation between the private sector and the LTRCA; and to promote the goals and objectives of the LTRCA.

The problems identified by the LTRCA included erosion, loss of topsoil, unrestricted livestock access, dams and obstructions, lack of forest cover landowners and twelve different sites on the creek for rehabilitation this year.

"We looked at the problem areas and, rather than choose one site that would take all of the budget to fix one problem, we decided that it would be better to choose a number of smaller problems to begin the project. On Rawdon Creek and Shelter Valley Creek, we are working on about 25 sites. We expect the program to run for about ten years and, if we can continue to correct the same number of problems each year, that means that we should be able to correct about 250 problems by the end of the program."

The project is long-term, but it should benefit more than just the landowners involved. Removal of obstructions from the creek should reduce flooding and limit stagnant water trapped above the obstructions. Other measures of control such as shrub-planting and reforestation, vegetation lining of stream-banks, rip rapping banks, regrading banks, log cribs, limiting and redirecting livestock access, buffer and poor agricultural practices, all of which reduce water quality and quantity in the creek and also contributes to the loss of agricultural land.

Rip rapping of the banks of Rawdon Creek on Peter Kooistra's farm should help fight erosion and improve the water quality of the creek. The edges of the then the stones are hand-creek are first regraded and placed on the banks.

Paul Hinde is the Conservation Services Field Supervisor of the project and he and the LTRCA chose four strips, grassed waterways and drainage rehabilitation are all designed to increase the aesthetics of the creek.

Besides the added beauty of a less problematic creek, the project has another very strong selling point—cost. The Lower Trent River Conservation Authority picks up 90 per cent of the cost while the landowner is responsible for only 10 per cent.

"We felt that even a small investment by the landowners would benefit everyone in that the land- See Rawdon on page 14 & 10

P&C Sports edge Stirling two games to one to take series

P & C Sports, playing before a large crowd, provided their best game of the season and narrowly edged Stirling 4-3 to win the series in four straight games.

P & C will now advance to the All Ontario Finals on Labor Day weekend.

The boys got off on the right foot in the first inning by scoring two runs. Peter Ringleman singled, went to third on a bunt by Lorne Brownson, and came home on Kelly Cook's seventeenth home run of the year. Stirling got one run back in the second inning by a home run from Darryl Chapman.

P & C scored two runs in the third with hits going to John Hanley, a triple, followed by a single from Scott Chapman, a triple from Craig Nobes, singles from Kevin Terrier, and Kelly Cook.

Stirling made the game close in the seventh inning when they scored two runs to narrow the game to 4-3. Lorne Brownson was once again the star of the game with his great performance in the field.

After the game the boys were treated to a meal by their sponsor for their great performance so far this year.

The boys would like to thank Jerry and Ron for this and they hope they can bring back the trophy for the All Ontario champs.

Credit should also go out to Mr. Bill Kerr and Ross Lees for working so hard on getting a sports section in the midweek edition of The Review.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

On Monday evening my family and myself attended a baseball game in Madoc. The Stirling boys lost to Madoc boys 4-3 but it was one of the best ball games I have ever seen.

I feel the boys on both teams are to be congratulated on the finest piece of sportsmanship ever witnessed. TV was never that good.

Cheese Juniors tie series

By ISABELLA SHAW

Eldorado Cheese Juniors are tied in their series against Otter Creek in the Tweed-Hungerford Men's league play.

Gray went the distance for the losers on the opening game on Monday evening giving up six hits, five walks and one strike-out. Six runs were scored by Otter Creek to defeat the Juniors 6-5.

In the second game on Thursday night, in Eldorado, the shoe was on the other foot as the Juniors went to the attack early and chalked up two runs in the first when Reid and Gray crossed the plate. Another was added in the bottom of the second.

More of the same was evident in the bottom of the third when five runs crossed the plate.

Another three runs in the fourth saw the Juniors go out in front 11-0, before Otter Creek made any kind of a challenge.

In the top of the fifth, Otter Creek scored two runs when pinch-hitter Clements homered and Courneyea, who reached on a walk, also scored. The rest of the game was scoreless and came to an abrupt end in the bottom of the sixth, when rain stopped the game.

Gray had eleven strikeouts in six innings, walked six and served up six hits.

Next game in this series will be on Tuesday August 24 in Eldorado.

Hope their bats will remain hot.

Madoc Squirts beaten out

By BILL DENISON

Last Wednesday, August 18, here at the Madoc ball diamond, the Frankford Squirts were in first place with 14 wins, 2 losses and one tie; Madoc Squirts were in second place with 13 wins, 3 losses and one tie.

Madoc was sporting an amazing 8-game winning streak; a win would put Madoc in a first place tie with Frankford.

However, Frankford geared to win, and win they did, to the wild tune of 20-3.

It was all-Frankford from the first inning.

They began with 5 runs and then added 5 more in the next inning.

The Frankford boys demonstrated an excellently balanced team and well deserved the romp over the Madoc lads.

Madoc will visit Frankford a second time Wednesday evening August 25, as the schedule nears its end.

The one-day playdowns for the Squirts division has been set for Saturday, August 28, at Springbrook.

Following were the leading Squirt's batters: Stephen Bancroft .443
Peter Denison .436
Derek Chapman .408

Madoc youngsters win Stirling awards

Two Madoc area youngsters won the top awards at the Stirling Beginner show held at Stirling Fair.

Derek Chapman, RR 5, Madoc, won the Ralston Purina trophy for top member over 35 other members. Derek had the score of 557 of a possible 600 points which included attendance at meetings, record keeping, calf quality and showmanship.

Derek also received a special award for completing the top record book.

He is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Chapman of Cooper.

The second highest scoring member with 532 points was Linda Stiles, RR 4, Marmora.

Her parents are Bob and Nancy Stiles.

Paula Harris, daughter of Harold and Pauline Harris was the other winner from Madoc. Her calf was selected as the top quality calf of the show. She also received a trophy from Purina.

Other competitors from the club were:

Beef Competitors - Tammy Andrew, Troy Bertrand, Sandra Grant, Roger Lockwood and Mark Shannon.

Dairy Competitors - Mark Balvert, Patricia Bateman, Margaret Brownson, Steven Dracup, Paula Foley, Heather Hamilton, Tammy Hubble, Marilyn Keating, Maria Kerby, Julie Murray, Linda Stiles, Lynette Treverton, Robert White, Chris Bateman, Danny Brownson, Tony DeSnoo, Annette Foley, Tim Hunt, Nathaniel Keating, Lynda Lott, John Ray, Rodney Thompson and Andrew Walsh.

Each of these youngsters, 10 or 11 years old, received a feed voucher from Purina, $5 and a ribbon from Stirling Agricultural Society and a pen from the Hastings Holstein Club.

Heather Andrew, 17, from Corunna, near Sarnia, sits at the side of the road in Queensboro, sketching a frame dwelling. Heather won a scholarship and exercised it at the Schneider School of Fine Arts in Actinolite. "It has been nice to be around people who are so professional and even nicer to have them show interest and appreciation towards my work," she said. "You will just have to mention Ken Winkworth, and Wellesley Westwood, one of this week's teachers, and a man named Ray," she said. "They are terrific."

Heather is going into Grade 12 at Sarnia Collegiate this fall.

$333,600 fisheries employment for Tweed area

613 weeks of work has been created for laid-off workers in the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) Eastern and Algonquin Regions, under a special provincial fisheries employment program, announced by Natural Resources Minister Alan Pope.

Projects directly affecting the Madoc, Tweed area include $176,000 in fish culture shed renovations, $11,000 for pond walkways, $130,000 for new construction, $5,600 for improvements to summer quarters and $11,000 for construction of a Walleye channel.

"We have approved 13 projects for the Eastern and Algonquin Regions under this program which will provide 69 jobs. The total cost of these projects is $538,720," Mr. Pope said.

Workers will improve fish culture facilities, renovate hatchery buildings, conduct surveys and rehabilitate streams, among other activities.

58 projects have been approved and will provide 2,332 weeks of work for 222 workers across the province, Mr. Pope said.

The program is part of the capital projects program announced in the Ontario budget last May.

MNR, through the Board of Industrial Leadership and Development (BILD), committed $2-million toward creating short-term fisheries jobs.

"Retaining workers within their communities in short-term jobs and proceeding with resource improvement projects will have long-term benefits and ensures some measure of well-being until the economy recovers," Mr. Pope said.

During the week of July 25-31 1982, officers of the Madoc Detachment answered 68 general occurrences.

These occurrences involved two willful damages, three break and enters, three assaults, five thefts and two fraud investigations.

One person was charged with Obstructing Police and two persons were charged with Possession of Narcotics for the Purpose of Trafficking.

Nine motor vehicle accidents were investigated.

There were minor injury accidents and three persons were injured.

The other six accidents included four property damage and two non-reportable accidents.

Since the beginning of the summer the Madoc Detachment has received several complaints of dangerous boating on area lakes.

Members of the Detachment would like to remind the public that boats must be operated in a safe and courteous manner and that boaters must have a life jacket before setting out on the lake.

The OPP would also like to remind boaters that there must be two people in a boat (an operator and an observer) when they are pulling a water skier.

Remember that safe boating makes a happy holiday.

Madoc Township fun league part 1

By ISABELLA SHAW

The second annual League Tournament of the Madoc Township Fun League was held August 13-15 weekend with eight teams participating.

It was a sunny weekend for the most part and fans enjoyed fourteen games of ball topped with an ORSA Junior B game between Brelton and Eldorado Cheese Juniors.

Cheese Juniors were victorious and returned to Freeleton on the 21st for a return game.

The August 13-15 Tournament opened with Ivanhoe meeting Tannery. Ivanhoe were victorious by a score of 12-5.

This sent Tannery to the B side of the tournament and Ivanhoe remained in the A side.

Spencer pitched for the winners, walked three, striking-out seven and serving up seven hits in the victory.

Jack Devolin pitched for the losers and pitched an equally strong game but could not stop the hot Ivanhoe bats.

Chris Spencer and Billy Douglas had perfect evenings at the plate going three for three. There were no home runs in the game.

The second game on Friday night was another pitching duel as each pitcher served up five hits.

Steve Whyte pitched for the Factory and Carl Osborne for the Eldors. The Eldors were the victors by a four to two score.

Steve recorded eight strike-outs, with five walks. Carl walked one batter and ganned nine batters.

More than one hundred fans watched and were treated to two very strong games of softball, which set the tone for the rest of the weekend.

Action started early on Saturday morning and the stands were full when the teams took the field at nine. Opening the day's action were Millbridge and O'Hara. It was a closely fought contest and one that saw O'Hara win by a score of 8-7.

Doug McCoy pitched for the winners serving up seven hits, four walks with three strike-outs.

Jim Parks and Darrell Peters combined for seven hits, seven walks and eight strike-outs for the Millbridge crew. Bruce Gorden sacrificed the winning run home with no one out in the fifth. Top batters for O'Hara were Jack Reynolds and Paul Rollins with two hits. Seven batters collected hits for Millbridge.

For the second game of the day, Bannockburn was in the drivers seat all the way and sent Queensboro home with a 15-6 defeat.

Dave Gorden had a home run for Queensboro, as well as Bob Thompson.

Harold Ramsey and Earl Alexander combined, for nine hits, four walks and three strike-outs. Warren Gear gave up seven hits, five walks and two strike-outs. One double play was executed by Bannockburn in this game.

The third game saw Tannery and the Factory meet and saw Tannery defeat the factory by a 8-5 score. Jack Devolin pitched for Tannery and proved that he has not lost his touch as he walked none, fanned four and scattered six hits. One of the hits was in the form of a home-run to Ken Gould.

Fourth game on Saturday, in the B side had Millbridge playing Queensboro. Millbridge, behind a strong pitching performance by Darrell Peters were the victors.

Darrell pitched a two-hitter, with six walks and 10 strike-outs.

In the next game, the Ivanhoe boys proved they were too strong for the Eldors and sent the Eldors down to a 16-3 loss.

Larry Scime and Paul Burris both collected three hits for the winners while Rae Robinson went two for two for the losers.

Rae collected a home run in one of his turns at bat. O'Haras doubled the score on Bannockburn, in the next game. This was behind a fine pitching performance by Ray Bailey, who scattered eight hits, with only two walks and one strike-out.

Bannockburn's runs were mainly scored in the sixth, when four runs crossed the plate on four successive hits.

Doug Lake collected a home run in the first inning to have Bannockburn leading in the game.

O'Haras scored five in the third, two in the sixth and five more in the seventh to salt the game away. Bannockburn executed two double plays in the early game.

Alexander took the mound for Queensboro in their game against the Factory and saw them drop their third consecutive game to be eliminated from the tournament.

Queensboro has played some very good ball this year for an expansion team. Looking for good things from this team next year.

Steve Whyte and Sam Lewis crossed the plate in this game for round baggers. Robert Boyle went the distance for the winners, allowing only four hits, with nine walks and nine strike-outs.

The next game was another one sided game. The Eldors continued to find their bats very cold and they came up on the short end of a 17-4 decision.

Osborne served up ten hits, coupled with five walks and one strike-out in a losing cause.

Warren Gear, just home from a honeymoon, continued to chuck good ball and served up seven hits, with two walks and two strike-outs. Continued next week

Cathy and Grant Moorcroft were presented with a memento at the fourth annual United Co-operatives of Ontario Young Couples' Conference in

Madoc couple at UCO

Grant and Cathy Moorcroft, Madoc, were presented with a memento at the fourth annual United Co-operatives (UCO) of Ontario, at Muskoka Sanda Inn, Gravenhurst, in July.

Twenty-two farm couples participated. Sponsored by their local co-ops the couples came from across Ontario and represented all aspects of agriculture.

"Husband and wives," said Reg Cressman, public relations, UCO, "are leaders in their communities by managing their businesses as a team."

The couples seemed to feel that the co-op played an important role in their lives, he said.

UCO is the largest farm supply co-operative in Ontario, a press release stated.

UCO provides farm products through 180 retail outlets, and is owned by 49,000 individuals and 48 member co-ops that represent an additional 35,000 members, the release said.

Madoc Fair approaches

Less than a month away, the Madoc Fair is slowly emerging into public consciousness from a year of inactivity.

Fair books have been circulated. Clubs and businesses are preparing exhibits. Individuals are registering. The Madoc Agricultural Society is bracing.

The activity will increase as the fair dates approach: September 24, 25 and 26.

The Madoc District Agricultural Society was organized in 1905. For 76 years the society has been in partnership with Madoc Township, Madoc Village and Huntingdon Township.

The first fair was held September 14-15, 1905. The property was rented for $25, and tents for exhibits were rented for 50 cents.

Membership to exhibit cost $1, admission was 25 cents. Admission charges realized $550. Prizes amounting to $600 were paid to winners who showed 100 horses, 150 cattle, 500 poultry, entries and 96 mineral entries.

The provincial grant that year was $540.

Eventually the property was purchased for $3,000.

The arena was erected in 1976.

Friday, September 24, a horse drawing match will begin at 7 p.m.

Saturday, the Hastings County 4-H clubs will show, and other dairy cattle, heavy horses, sheep, swine and poultry will compete.

Sunday is light-horse day featuring saddle and pony shows, races, and pony weight-pulling.

Handicrafts, cooking, local wares and exhibits will be on display and the ladies' department will sponsor a baby show.

owners would be more prone to advise us of additional problems on the sites if they had money invested in the program. Part of their responsibility is to look after the sites and advise us if something goes wrong," Paul Hinde told, Cembal Publications.

Much of the work for this year has now been completed. Paul has been ably assisted this year by Brian Finley of Trenton and Gary Bulman of Brighton. Work is still being finished, but Paul expected the loose ends to be tied up by the end of August. That is, the physical work is nearing completion, but plans will begin immediately on next year's project.

Anyone interested in becoming involved in the project for next year should contact Paul Hinde at the LTRCA at 613-594-4829. Projects for next year are not necessarily chosen on a first-come, first-served basis, according to Paul. "We're looking at solving the greatest number of problems while the program lasts rather than blowing the whole budget on one site," he reiterated.

Pam Reid IGA baker

Pam Reid, Madoc, measures bread dough after mixing, for bread to be sold across the counter at IGA. Pam works with Veronica Callery, Suzette Downey and Carol Fleming to produce several kinds of bread, donuts, cake, pie, squares and cookies necessary to supply the bakery.

Bakers, unsung heroes of the food chain?

Why do people stop at Kramps for gasoline, step inside for coffee while they're waiting, and spend half an hour inside?

Why do people go into the IGA to shop and find themselves sitting in the cafeteria instead?

The answer is the same in both questions.

Baking. The places just smell too good to ignore.

Not too many things can interrupt single-minded pursuit of daily routine.

Baking is different. It has the power to stop the legs, park the posterior and put self-indulgence before other interests.

Bakers may be the unsung heroes of the food chain.

"We start as early as 2 a.m.," said Darla West of Madoc, "depending upon what's needed to supply the restaurant." Darla and Brenda Lucas, RR3 Tweed, are the two bakers at Kramp's Restaurant.

"We don't start until about 5 a.m. here," said Pam Reid of the Cooper Road, "but we have extra bakers." Pam oversees the bake shop operations in the Madoc IGA.

Pam works with Veronica

Callery, Suzette Downey and Carol Fleming to supply the IGA counter.

Both baking crews produce essentially the same items - white and brown bread, crusty bread, donuts, cake, pies, squares, brownies, cookies, Danish buns and other sweets.

"We never get ahead on any items," Darla West explained. "We make all the hamburger buns for the restaurant and they really keep us going."

"The volume," said Pam Reid, "is four or five times as great in the new IGA as it was in the old one."

"As you can see," she said, "we're kept busy." Carol Fleming was tucked in a corner deep-frying donuts. Suzette Downey stood at a table filling donuts with jelly and Verónica Callery was weighing dough for bread.

It's difficult to know whether Darla, Brenda, Pam, Veronica, Suzette and Carol are friends or foes, however.

While they may be the unsung heroes of the food line, they may also be the unsung villains of the waist-line.

Still, 2 a.m. is awfully early....

Darla West, 21, of Madoc, removes brownies from a shelf-oven. Darla and Brenda Lucas, RR3 Tweed, start work as early as 2 a.m. on occasion to supply Kramps restaurant with chesles buns, cookies, breads, cakes, pies and other sweets. The girls work five days a week. Staff photo.

BY PRISCILLA CADWELL

Forty-seven members of the Newmarket Senior Citizens Club visited the Lester Pearson Peace Park by chartered bus in July for a one-day outing.

The bus was directed to the park, near Tweed, by Hilda Andersen of the Madoc Senior Citizens' Club.

The Peace Park was organized as part of Canada's Centennial by a group of local citizens who support the park on a voluntary basis," Mr. Cadwell said. The park was named after the late Mr. Pearson because he was Canada's only Nobel Peace Prize winner, he explained.

The bus drove along the Avenue of the Provinces past the Memorial Gardens and the senior citizens disembarked to walk to the Peace Pagoda shrine.

East of the shrine is the peace column where Reverend J.H. Thompson of St.

John's Anglican Church, Madoc, and Reverend Horiuchi of the Fujima temple, Japan dedicated the park on July 1, 1967.

Mrs. Edith McCutcheon, president and convener, led the senior citizens to the Mother's Shrine and climbed the steps to the Tower of Peace to obtain a view of the countryside.

The Newmarket senior citizens spent about an hour at the park and before leaving took a $21.75 collection as a donation.

While in the area the senior citizens visited O'Hara's Mill, Madoc Talc Mine, Queensborough and the Eldorado Cheese Factory.

The group read about the Peace Park in the Toronto Star.

They had never visited the eastern part of the province and they decided the park would provide an informative, pleasant, one-day tour.

Local artist loves the area and the people

In a house tucked in off the Blairton Road, on a hilltop overlooking the bay, Peter Hebner took his feet down from the coffee table painter.

He was a 19-year-old clerk in a Hamilton hardware store when he did his first portrait.

artist," Peter said. "My wife is very supportive and has become one of my best critics."

They have a son, Peter, his dream of becoming a full-time artist.

"I went back to school when I was forty," Peter explained, "to Mohawk College where I studied water colors, tempera and pastel mediums."

When he left Mohawk, Peter was ready. He worked in pastels for the next six years and eventually got so handy in the medium that it was difficult to tell pastels were being used.

"I often came to the cottage for inspiration, or when I was fed up momentarily with things. I love to fish," he said, looking over his shoulder at a thirty-pound musky mounted and hanging on the wall behind the chesterside.

"There are still some big ones out there in front of the cottage; I see them breaking the surface."

A few years ago, the Hebners inherited Peter's father's cottage. They built a house higher on the property and moved to Blairton permanently in 1979.

"Betty and I both love this place," he said. Betty came from a small town and her father was a hunter and a fisherman.

"Betty's hobby is gardening and she fishes with me," Peter said. "When the fish are biting MY lure, we get to trade lures," he said slyly. "But when they're biting HER lure, well..." his voice trailed off and he smiled.

"I used to work at night, sometimes until 2 or 3 a.m., but no any more." Betty is employed in Trenton at the taxation office. When she gets home from work, that's when work stops, he said. "We spend our evenings together."

Peter says he is comfortable in his trade.

"I'm not a frustrated artist," he said. "You hear too much about that sort of thing."

"I wouldn't suggest this kind of existence for anyone who gets lonely or uptight," he said.

"I do about 80 per cent of my work in the winter, when there is no activity in the area. There's no time to be lonely."

Even though his pastel works were selling, he realized it was time to move on again in the field, and Peter switched to water colours, the medium he is perfecting now, while still working pastels and oils.

Like anyone who finds himself complete, happy in life and happy with his work, Peter began to share his knowledge and talents with others.

He teaches in the basement of his new home. This summer he has four students, each working in a different medium.

"In the winter, enrolment swells to 10 or 12," he said.

Peter goes each year into the public school in Marmora. He wants to get children interested and started early in art.

"Children are amazed to see canvas stretched, a base coat of paint applied and a painting materialize," he said. "They want to gather all the information all at once."

David Armstrong, once a student at the senior school in Marmora, designed the school's official crest. Peter was called in to work with David to complete it.

The Marmora Historical Society wanted a series of paintings done on historic buildings that are now only memories. Working with Connie Morris, Marmora, and Linda Sanderson, Crowe Lake, Peter selected pastels for sharp durable work, and they produced seven paintings in two months.

This fall, he is scheduled to conduct a class in Loyalist College in portrait painting. It will be his fourth year accommodating art instructions for Loyalist.

"I do very few art shows," Peter said. "It is not necessary to go very far afield, since I receive great support right here." It's a pleasure, he said, to travel to impromptu shows in Marmora or Havelock and be with friends.

His attitude is a type of gratitude for the people and places nearby that he loves.

"I only display my work in one place, too," he said. His paintings hang in the Ice Cream House, the old Halfway House, on Highway 7, near the Blairton Road.

"Owners Andy and Pat Davis are great people," he said, "and since I even care about who handles my work, I'm leaving it to them exclusively."

Despite his loyalty and exclusivity, Peter's work is on the move. He has paintings in Scotland, Ireland, Australia and Belle Isle, Newfoundland.

Peter and the cat and the drawing board

Shown with his cat, Harvey, Peter Hebner of Blairton Bay, worked in the basement of his home and leaned forward.

"I love the place," he said earnestly.

Peter was talking about Blairton Bay, Marmora, Madoc, Havelock and the whole area.

"I have tremendous support," he said. "Not only do I love the land and the lake, but the people blend into the picture too."

Peter talks and thinks in picture terms. He is an artist.

Born in Hamilton in 1955, Peter Hebner first came to Blairton Bay as a child.

"There were days," he said, "when we came up to my father's cottage and there was so much water across the road we had to abandon the car and walk in."

Peter took his first formal training in commercial art while still a boy at Delta High School, Hamilton.

"I didn't really get heavily into painting until much later in life," he said.

Peter's desires were established, though, and he always had it in his mind that he would become a who was born in 1958. The young lad works at Stelco in Hamilton and is an accomplished scuba diver. He intends to take a diving course at Seneca College this fall.

Peter senior worked at several jobs in the Hamilton area over the years to ensure support for his family and he did pencil portraits in his off-work hours.

"I must have 200 pencil portraits in the steel city area," he said. "But an artist has to move on, has to improve, or he's dead."

Move on he did. In Canada's Centennial year the Hebners sold their house in Hamilton and headed west. They spent a year touring Canada.

Peter took a bit of training in the school of fine arts in Vancouver and worked at odd jobs, painted and sold a few portraits during that year.

Eventually he grew tired of having "graphite in my teeth" from pencil portraits and decided he did not know enough about art to realize

The Traeth Male Voice Choir, a leading Welsh choir, will be stopping for lunch at Mother's German Restaurant, Black River Road, August 29, during a 2-week singing tour of Ontario.

The choir will have a

"Although the restaurant is booked to capacity from 12:2 p.m.," said Maureen Lewis, "if the weather is good, we will ask the group to sing outside. Anyone interested could hear them sing and could come in for lunch later." Maureen and her husband, Barry Lewis, own and operate Mother's Restaurant.

The Traeth Choir has booked lunch for 63 people, including a 3-year-old boy and the driver of the bus they are using to transport them to performances in Kingston, Ottawa, Peterborough, Orillia, Midland, St. Thomas, London and Oshawa.

Two years ago the choir appeared at Caravan Multinational Festival in Toronto and was given an Award of Merit.

They will terminate their tour this year after performing in the National Gmanfa Ganu, a singing festival, on the Labour Day weekend in Toronto.

A Canadian delegation left Montreal August 13, to attend ceremonies commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Raid on Dieppe.

On August 19, 1942, nearly 5,000 Canadian troops were called upon the lead "Operation Jubilee", an assault on the enemy defences at Dieppe and nearby beaches.

Only 2,300 Canadians returned from France. There were a total of 3,367 casualties, including 907 Canadians killed and 1,946 taken prisoner.

Dieppe marked the first time all three Canadian services were engaged in the same major mission.

Included in the official delegation are members of the 18 Army units that participated at Dieppe.

Initial ceremonies were held in England where the Canadian troops were stationed before embarking for Dieppe.

August 15, Mr. Campbell, Minister of Veterans Affairs, spoke at ceremonies at the Brookwood Military Cemetery and at Runnymede. The Memorial at Brookwood is dedicated to all Commonwealth servicemen and women who have no known grave. Runnymede is the site of the Air Force Memorial, erected in tribute to all Commonwealth airmen whose burial places are unknown. The Royal Air Force suffered its largest single-day aircraft loss of the Second World War at Dieppe.

August 17, the Canadian delegation travelled to Newfoundland to honor members of the Royal Canadian Engineers who left the English port for Dieppe and never returned.

Another ceremony was held at Fort Newhaven, home of a permanent exhibition dedicated to the Dieppe Raid. Mr. Campbell unveiled a plaque presented by the crew of the landing craft that carried the Canadian soldiers across the Channel.

August 18, the Canadians travelled by ferry to Dieppe. During the voyage there was wreath-laying ceremony at sea in memory of naval personnel killed 40 years before.

The delegation was met at Dieppe by the Mayor and other civic officials. Mr. Campbell opened a Photo Exhibition recalling the Raid.

Triticale is the alternative to marginal winter wheat

BY MURRAY MARKLE
KING GRAIN

OAC Wintri, a winter triticale, will be available in commercial quantities for seeding this fall by Ontario farmers.

Triticale is a man-made synthetic cross between wheat and rye.

OAC Wintri, the first licensed triticale variety in Ontario, was developed by the Crop Science Department of the University of Guelph and released to King Grain in 1980.

Combining the nutritional qualities and yieldability of winter wheat with the winter hardiness of rye, OAC Wintri has demonstrated higher winter survival and consistently higher yields when compared against Fredrick wheat in the Ontario Regional Winter Triticale Tests and the Eastern Co-operative Winter Feed Wheat Trials.

Increasingly, cereal diseases, because of their negative effect on yields and income, are becoming more of a concern to producers. OAC Wintri has shown resistance to stem rust, mildew, root rot and is moderately resistant to leaf rust.

Approximately two weeks later in maturity than Fredrick wheat, the variety is highly resistant to head shattering with the grain carried on a tall, strong straw. Initially, because of its high protein content, the crop will be utilized as an on-farm feed source in hog and poultry operations. No cash commodity markets presently exist for the grain.

The crop is adapted to all of the major winter wheat-producing regions of the province and is particularly well suited to those areas where winter wheat may be considered marginal.

Details and suggestions for the successful crop management of OAC Wintri are available from King Grain, Pride Seed Dealers and all seed retailers marketing King Brand seeds.

Kitty Wells will be in Lindsay August 28

Kitty Wells was a "Super Star" in Country Music before anyone ever coined the word. The undisputed all time Queen on Country Music broke the mold of a man's world before Women's Lib was ever a topic of discussion. Born in Nashville, Kitty recalls that music has always been important to her entire family. She began playing the guitar at age 14 and began singing in church even earlier. When she was sixteen, Kitty met Johnny Wright, a young man whose interest in music matched her own. They were married 2 years later.

Kitty Wells has pioneered many "firsts" in the Country Music industry. She was part of the first country music show to play the female to reach number one on today's music charts. She stayed there as the number one female country music artist every year from 1954 to 1965.

In 1953 Johnny moved to Nashville, where country music was beginning to emerge. It was here that Johnny met another youngster, Jack Anglin, and while neither of them realized it at the moment, it was the beginning of one of the great unforgettable teams of all time... Johnny and Jack.

Johnny soon met a young girl from Nashville, Muriel Deason and shortly thereafter changed her name to after changed her name from Miss Deason to "Mrs. Wright" and also to the non-de stage of Kitty Wells.

ABC recording artist Bobby Wright is one of the most versatile performers on today's music scene. A young man, Bobby's experience in Country Music began at age 6 in Shreveport, La. on the famous "Louisiana Hayride". During summers, he traveled across the United States with a famous Grand Ole Opry touring unit and was a Decca recording artist at age 11.

Bobby Wright didn't stop there. After completing high school in the Nashville area, he entered Middle Tennessee State University when show business beckoned. A call came to audition for a TV series which resulted in his being seen by millions of people each week in the part of "Willie" on the network show "McHale's Navy". It changed the direction of Bobby Wright's life and sealed his future in show business.

Kitty Wells, Johnny and Bobby Wright will appear in Lindsay August 28, at the Exhibition Grounds.

Canadians are a short two years away from 1984, the year author George Orwell predicted we would become a society of well-managed robots, generally following government policies supposedly enacted for our own good. There would be little room for dissent.

In a lot of ways, this society by the numbers already exists. Canadians are now forced to have social security numbers for identification purposes, restrictions on individual activity have proliferated and, among other changes, we're all being directed to think metric.

Quite naturally, a lot of people are upset because for every government intrusion into our affairs, there is a consequent erosion of our freedom of choice.

The latest intervention in the lives of Canadians is Ottawa's plan to crack down on the press, using a carrot and stick approach to overcome what government perceives as problems in the media.

As a start, Ottawa is about to restrict the nation's two major newspaper chains from buying more newspapers. While the government may indeed be correct in its assumption that the chains are restricting competition, surely that issue can be tackled with present or proposed legislation, rather than a special piece of legislation. The problem with special legislation is that Ottawa appears to be trying to exert control over something delicate, indefinable and fragile; yet fundamental to our way of life: freedom of the press.

The government wants to set up press councils, and the new legislation will offer millions of dollars to help some newspapers better cover national and international events.

In a recent vote among the 64,000 members of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business, a full 67 per cent flatly rejected government controls on newspaper ownership.

What the entrepreneurs seem to be saying: there is no room for governments in the newsrooms of the nation. They're right, particularly when one considers the unbelievable propaganda now coming from Ottawa. Allowing government even one foot inside the newsroom door is sheer folly.

To familiarize all readers with the events in nearby towns, Cembal Publications presents a brief review of news.

Hastings

The debate over whether or not to allow transient business to operate in the village has gone to committee. The committee is willing to meet anyone interested in participating in the debate.

Resentment of neighbors of Riverside Pavilion grew again this year over nighttime noise and garden-trampling near the dance hall. The owner says he has taken several steps to minimize noise and vandalism, but points out the hall has been operating since 1938. Neighbors say amplifiers and rock and roll have changed things.

Diane Williams was chosen Miss Hastings.

Havelock

A team from Westwood won the Lions' Summerfest Ball Tournament.

Don Kelloway, village clerk, returned from hospital. Mr. Kelloway and his daughters were injured in a car accident July 31.

Brad Hemington reportedly has taken over the job of Havelock's Mr. Fixall. Reverend John A. Hopkins, moving from Maynooth, took over Havelock United Church.

Stirling

Stirling's 124th fair was held. The number of exhibitors was up, the weather was good, higher prize money was awarded, and the fair was a success, the News-Argus reported.

25 horses entered the Chatterton Valley Cross Country Trials, and despite having expected more, the owner felt the event was successful.

Ross Lees, Stirling News-

Argus editor, will be coordinating a sports section in the Midweek portion of Cembal papers. The section is designed to allow residents of the six villages covered by Cembal Publications to watch sports results as the towns compete.

Three Stirling boys and one from Havelock travelled to North Bay for a canoe trip through Algonquin Park. They expected to cover 140 miles.

Hooray!?

An Ontario Hydro nuclear reactor has set a record for performance.

Unit 3, one of four 750,000 kilowatt reactors at the Bruce "A" generating station, has been running non-stop since May 11, 1981, 24 hours a day.

As of July 31, the 436 days of continuous operation far outstripped the previous Hydro record of 336 days set in 1974-75 at Pickering generating station. The reactor continues to operate at full power.

Salt inhibits bacteria

Salt is an additive used since ancient times to preserve meat and fish. Today, it's major flavoring ingredient in a wide variety of foods. It inhibits the growth of harmful bacteria in such products as bacon, sausage and bread.

The average amount of salt consumed per person in the US is estimated at 8½ kg (18 pounds) a year. Authorities say North Americans consume 20 times more salt than is needed to maintain good nutrition. The sodium factor in salt is known to be a contributor to high blood pressure. As a hidden ingredient in processed foods, salt must be considered a real hazard in our diets, according to the Harvard Medical School Letter.

Recently Norcliff Thayer, a US manufacturer, introduced a salt substitute that looks like salt, tastes like salt, and pours like salt but contains no salt. Aptly enough, this new product is called NoSalt and is composed mainly of potassium chloride. It sells for about $5 for an eleven-ounce container. If you're one of the many people watching salt intake keep your eyes open for NoSalt in your grocery store.

Complete energy security for Canada

this close!

We're using less oil.

In Canada, we are able to produce more electricity, natural gas, propane and coal than we need. When we bring our oil production into balance with our oil consumption, Canada will be completely self-sufficient in energy. And with the assistance of programs from the Government of Canada, that's exactly what's happening.

- Thousands of homeowners and businesses have used Canada Oil Substitution Program grants to convert from oil to other fuels for heating.
- Over a million have used Canadian Home Insulation Program grants to cut energy consumption by improving insulation.
- A major pipeline project is taking western natural gas to new markets to help reduce dependence on oil. Another program is helping gas utilities to extend service to new customers.
- The Propane Vehicle Grant Program is helping operators of large fleets of vehicles convert from gasoline to clean, economical propane.

Government of Canada research and development is finding new ways of reducing our dependence on oil. Improved insulation techniques for homes, water heating from solar energy, generation of electricity by wind power, use of waste materials as an energy source are all being demonstrated in current federal government projects.

We're finding more oil.

In the north, in spite of difficult economic times over the past year and a half, there have been new oil discoveries in both the Beaufort Sea-Mackenzie Delta and in the Arctic Islands areas.

Canada's established oil reserves, as estimated by the Canadian Petroleum Association, increased in 1981 with the inclusion, for the first time, of the promising Hibernia reserves in the Atlantic offshore.

Enough gas has now been proved off Sable Island to proceed with development. All told, natural gas reserves have been discovered at more than twice the rate of production in Canada in recent years.

Energy security — a source of strength

In October 1980, the Government of Canada announced a series of programs and initiatives to make Canada self-sufficient in energy by the end of the decade. Its name — the National Energy Program.

After just 18 months, it's clear that the program is working, and that the majority of Canadians share the Government's energy goals.

To reduce our need for oil, homeowners and businesses are enthusiastically participating in the many Government programs designed to help them convert from oil to alternative fuels.

To increase our reserves of oil, billions of dollars are being invested in new exploration and development projects by the petroleum industry, despite unfavourable economic conditions.

When oil consumption and oil production are in balance, we'll have energy security, a source of strength for any country in today's world. — Already, Canada has taken a significant step towards energy security.

it's working!

Together, we'll make it!

Enquire about Government programs, many backed by grants and incentives, which can help homes and businesses reduce their energy costs by conserving and converting. Write:

Arts festival scheduled for Corbyville

Tweed Kiwanis Club will sponsor a Fine Art Festival September 11-12, hosted by Corby Distilleries in a beautiful garden setting on the banks of the Moira River.

The festival is designed to illustrate the outstanding work done by artists and sculptors in Central Ontario. Several professional artists have already confirmed that they will attend.

Carl Hoselton, an internationally known sculptor, whose studio is located in Cobourg, has a rare sensitive appreciation for wildlife and this is depicted in his unique stylized sculpture. His work was selected to be presented to the Canadian-Russian Hockey Players at the conclusion of the games.

Others attending include Nicholas Bechgaard who will be exhibiting paintings and fine stained glass.

Bechgaard completed his art education in England, toured the world, and settled in Ontario. He had many showings in Toronto and recently had an exhibition in the Artspace Gallery in Peterborough.

Liz Sinclair sculpts in porcelain and her pieces are distinctive in design and coloration. She had pictures of her work in Chatelaine Magazine. She works from her studio near Thomasburg.

Ron Gray, Belleville, is a versatile artist whose works in oil and in watercolor have drawn attention from across Canada. His landscapes convey a quiet, tranquil mood to the viewer.

Poul Thrane, chairman of the Fine Art Festival Committee, is a Danish-born artist who made his home near Actinolite. He taught art in Loyalist College in Belleville, and exhibited his work throughout the province.

Bill Irish works in egg tempera, a very demanding medium, and his paintings show a meticulous attention to detail.

Ed Cronk had a long career as a commercial artist and worked for many large corporations. He now has a studio near Arden and works mainly in watercolors.

Debra Tate-Sears of Tweed is a young watercolor artist who recently had a showing of her work in the Corby Public Gallery, in Belleville.

Professional artists, art associations and councils are encouraged to contact the Kiwanis Club of Tweed for information regarding entry.

The old should not be cold we're told

Sweating or shivering are both vital to life. "They are the body's way of controlling its temperature," says Dr. J.R.D. Bayne, Professor, McMaster University and Medical Director of St. Peter's Centre in Hamilton.

When exposed to extreme heat, the automatic pilot in our brain signals our blood vessels to enlarge, and opens our pores and sweat glands, cooling our bodies. It shuts off our shivering mechanisms, simultaneously.

Extreme cold produces the opposite response: the automatic pilot signals our blood vessels to shrink and causes shivering, gooseflesh and the hair-on-end activity which restores our bodies' warmth. Sweat glands are closed.

If this automatic pilot is faulty, accidental hypothermia, a life-threatening drop in body temperature, may result.

While not strictly age-related, studies in Great Britain show that about 10 per cent of those over 65 are at risk.

The figures are not known for North America, but because of the availability of central heating, hypothermia may be less common.

Dr. Bayne and Anne Brokenshire, a Victorian Order nurse, have been studying the condition.

Many older people have cold hands and feet. This is not abnormal.

Three signs to watch for, particularly in an elderly person who is not very active, are: cold skin in an area of the body which is usually warm, such as the chest or abdomen; lack of awareness of being cold; an accurate temperature reading which measures 35°C (95°F) or less.

Accurate measurement can be assured by making sure the thermometer used has been shaken down below the 35°C mark before insertion and left in for a longer period - even 5 to 10 minutes. If the person has recently drunk something very cold or very hot, wait at least 20 minutes before measuring temperature.

The presence of these three signs is serious and the doctor should be called.

With winter coming, Dr. Bayne advises all older people to wear warm clothing, even in mildly cold weather, use warm, not hot, water bottles, electric blankets or heaters, to ask their doctors if they have a medical condition or are taking pills which might blunt their response to the cold and to keep homes warm - at least 21°C (70°F).

The law requires landlords to heat apartments to between 15°C to May 31st, yearly. If your apartment is underheated, report this to the Health Department.

The old should not be cold. Have a warm healthy winter.

Brits vets are sports

After the Second World War, disabled veterans in Britain started competing in sporting events and their achievements were so rewarding that soon the idea spread throughout the world. Today, the Olympics for the Physically Disabled is held every four years and runs concurrently with the Olympic Games. Athletes from Ontario hold many world records including the 100 metres, which was run by amputee Magella Belanger in 14 seconds (the Olympic record is 9 seconds), and the 1500 metres, which was run by Jack Pilon in 4½ minutes in the blind division. We can all be proud of these fine men and women who have overcome their disabilities and proven to everyone, that absolutely nothing can keep them down.

Shepherds Nook: Most kids not really bad

BY KEN YARROW

Today's youth—what is your deep down opinion? Do you only read the paper headlines? Do you only listen to the critical news reports? If this is so, then you could possibly be one of those who say, "What is today's youth coming to?"

Drug addicts, thrill seekers, wild incomprehensible music, hoodlums and on and on. A totally negative atmosphere, or so it would seem.

The problem here is what people want to read and hear about is not Jane who graduates from college with high marks that people are kept informed of. The sensational, e.g. teenager kills friend at recess with a knife, drug raid nets five teens.

Now, there is nothing wrong with reporting the news, but it does create a certain role for those in this group. "Boy, did you hear what John did downtown?"

Possibly, if we became more interested in the good things about our young people it would help to create an altogether different expectancy from them.

Another thing to consider is where do they get these ideas? I recently watched a movie on TV. It depicted a situation where experimental piranha fish were released into a river. These then proceeded to consume every living thing in the river—including people. It was only a few weeks later I heard on the radio that a teenager had dumped a tankful of these fish in a U.S. river. Well, maybe there is no connection, but it sure makes one wonder. Promiscuity is another prime example. We complain bitterly about this. All those great people on TV do it. If you ever watch afternoon soaps, divorce and all the related factors are the prime sellers.

A few weeks ago at the Madoc pullers' jamboree we had the pleasure of another type of young people. Backdoor Country provided bluegrass country music that is comparable to or better than some experienced bands. Now these young fellas did not get to this stage by sitting around high on drugs, or constantly chasing someone's daughter.

It takes a lot of hours of practice and dedication to produce this high quality music. My apologies fellas, this is badly overdue, but I could not get all names. This group of four was led by Bob Caverly of Marmora, accompanied by his brother, Brian Moorcroft of Madoc and one unknown. It is always a satisfying thing to be able to praise the young people. As I said before, it is all too often only the bad who get attention.

Another who deserves mention is our fair queen who is going to compete at the CNE. Good luck to Rhonda Alexander.

Now the riddle: Should these future citizens follow their instincts, home teaching or the unlimited multitude of examples being set for them?

Stop and think before you condemn, maybe a kind word, a little better example would do more good.

Another thing: Are you perfect, have you always been perfect?

There was only one perfect person, and He gave everything for humanity.

Christ always taught and practised compassion. Are we better than Him?

Postal performance positively pitiful

By W. Roger Worth

There's little wonder Canada's beleaguered smaller firms (and many larger companies) are angry about the country's postal system.

Consider what's happening. While virtually every small business has been forced to lay off valuable employees, Canada Post continues to operate as if the economy wasn't in trouble at all.

Few posties have been laid off, even if the volume of mail going through the system has plummeted. What's more, postal workers are undoubtedly the highest paid semi-skilled laborers in the country, at a cool $23,000 per year, which is more than a lot of entrepreneurs' earn in a mediocre year. This year, though, a great many smaller operators will lose money, if they aren't bankrupt or in receivership.

Meanwhile, Canada Post President Michael Warren (a steal, they say, at $150,000 per year), is frittering away $200,000 on advertisements telling the public how great the postal service is getting. It is to laugh.

Simply put, there doesn't appear to be anyone with even a modicum of common sense at Canada Post.

Postal rates were increased from 17 cents to 30 cents per letter (to pay for high wage settlements and benefits) the posties received as a result of being given the right to strike), yet no one considered that mail volume might drop. It did. The reason: people found it cheaper to deliver their own bills.

When that happened, Post Office President Warren and his management minions stepped in with new regulations. Now, a new definition of a letter gives the Post Office a monopoly on virtually all written communications in the country.

Even hand delivery of an invitation to a child's birthday is punishable.

Indeed, Canada Post views are so stagnated that both management and union members seem to believe the rest of the country exists to keep them in the manner to which they have become accustomed.

An innovative new product, for example, allows electricity meter readers to print out and deliver bills as they make their necessary rounds. Such a nifty item doubles productivity, allowing two jobs to be handled in one call.

Yet Big Brother Michael Warren and his government supporters claim such productivity gains aren't allowed. The bill must be mailed.

If Warren and highly-placed bureaucrats in other government departments can't understand such money-saving propositions, it's perhaps significant. After all, the Posties, among other civil servants, have shunned such cost saving measures for years, even with their high salaries. It's a pity.

Hastings County agriculture received $1,000 membership award

Hastings County Federation of Agriculture received a $1,000 prize for a membership increase of ten per cent last year, the only county to receive the award. The county placed first in membership recruiting in Ontario, a recent news release announced.

Paul McKeown placed second provincially with 42 signatures obtained by one individual.

The federation's extended health plan has been a big seller, the news release said, with semi-private care and full drug coverage costing only $65 per year.

Bob TrotterOne foot in the furrow -

The debt the rest of Canada owes to the agricultural community is beyond comprehension.

In Asia, for example, one farm worker produced an average of 44,000 pounds of food crops last year. In Russia, a farm worker managed to produce 55,000 pounds of food. Sounds good?

The average Canadian farmer annually supplies 375,000 pounds of food, more than 10 times that of his Russian counterpart. It has been long established that the Russian farmer on his private plot produces far more than the communal farms. Which is why the Canadian farmer has become so efficient. He produces on his own land, using his own equipment
and risking his own money.

Without this exceptional production capacity, Canadians would be importing far more food than they do.
Even then, we import too much but that is another story.

Canadians have been proud of the fact that our farmers produce a great many goods but productivity growth in farming has been five times greater than the non-farm sector in the last five to 10 years. Yet some publications, especially the large metropolitan newspapers, constantly refer to farmers as not being able to keep up with the technological and production advances of other major industries.

Why farmers get tarred with this unproductive brush is beyond me. All that is necessary is to look at the productivity figures. One Canadian farmer supplies enough food to feed about 70 people. Thirty years ago, one farmer fed approximately 16 people. Eighty years ago, one farmer produced enough food for about five people.

Who could, in all fairness, suggest that the Canadian farmer is not producing as much or more than his city counterpart?

What sets the farmer aside, what makes him/her different from any other producer is his/her investment. The factory worker has little or no investment in a job; that is, no investment in land, buildings or equipment. But that factory worker makes, on average, more than a farmer.

The factory worker has not made an investment; his employer has made the investment. But the farmers in Canada have invested more than $115 billion, most of it in land.

It is Canada's largest industry. It has been said by better economists than me that if you were to group together the assets of the top 20 industrial corporations in Canada, the total
of what Canadian farmers have invested to produce food and fibre.

So when farm leaders suggest that farming is different and that farmers should be treated in a different manner from other sectors of the economy, they are not just whistling in the wind. They have a great deal to be proud of. They are different and should be given some favors.

When it is suggested that the rest of the country can not allow subsidies, for farmers, to be paid forever out of the public purse, perhaps those detractors should look around and be grateful for what agriculture has done and will continue to do.

Farmers are a precious resource and should be treasured that way.

They are different. They are special.

The word honeymoon is believed to have come from the old German custom of drinking mead (a wine made with honey) for thirty days after a wedding.

run out of things to talk about. Not so with the remarkable Renault Le Car. Renault Le Car is right up there with the best of the economy imports. But the 1982 Le Car goes far beyond simple economy to offer standard rack and pinion steering, Michelin steel belled radials, 4-wheel independent suspension and front-wheel drive, plus surprising room for four and their gear. So you can get the mileage you need and the features you want in one smart little Renault Le Car.
By the way, the D.O.T. rating is 32.9 miles per gallon highway, 34.9 in city.
